GERMAN FLYERS POISE FOR OCEAN FLIGHT

EXPECT PLANE WILL LEAVE IRELAND FOR FLIGHT WEDNESDAY

Three Flyers Using Junkers Monoplane On Attempt

DUBLIN, March 27.—Surrounded by armed guards in its sealed hangar at the Baldonnel airfield here, the Junkers monoplane "Bremen" stood poised today for a westward hop over the Atlantic. The start will be made at five o'clock tomorrow morning with Captain Herman Koehl, Germany's foremost flier, at the controls.

Koehl will be accompanied by Fritz Loose, relief pilot, and Baron Von Huenefeld, financial backer of the flight. Huenefeld will serve as the official observer.

The fliers had intended to take off on the dangerous and hitherto unaccomplished flight westward at dawn today but they were so fatigued by their flight from Berlin yesterday that they decided to delay their attempt.

"I hope to get away by 5 o'clock Wednesday morning," Captain Koehl said last night. "We will head for Newfoundland, and we may land there if weather conditions, and the state of our fuel supply make such a course advisable. But our goal is Mitchell Field, N. Y."

Loose arrived here several days ago with a crew of mechanics to make arrangements for the landing and refueling of the ship. He supplied Arthur Spindler, the mechanic who flew from Berlin with Koehl as relief pilot.

The mechanics tuned up the plane's motor today, overhauled the rest of the ship thoroughly and fitted it with a new type of undercarriage designed by Professor Junkers especially for this flight.

The "Bremen" will carry no radio. Nor will the fliers carry life-belts or other emergency safety devices, for every bit of space has been utilized for fuel tanks.

"My life's ambition is to fly across the Atlantic and I am going to fulfill it," Captain Koehl declared. "I am confident we will make it with a little luck."

With its hop-off shrouded in mystery, the plane left from Tempelhof airfield, Berlin, at eight o'clock yesterday morning and arrived here nine hours and ten minutes later.

Captain Koehl attempted to conquer the Atlantic in a westward flight last year but was forced to give up the attempt because of terrific headwinds. He is rated as a cool, capable flier of the first water and has been planning the present attempt since his failure last year. He is said to be far from foolhardy and very likely to return even after he stands if weather conditions enroute do not meet with his approval.

Koehl's plane has a fuel capacity which is said to be sufficient to keep it aloft from thirty-five to forty hours. It is powered with a motor of the same type as that which now holds the world's record for endurance flying.

The fliers are being shielded by officials of the Baldonnel field from interviews, photographers and others who try to see them, so that they may be insured a "complete rest until their departure."

If the weather is unfavorable, the fliers will wait here no longer than ten days. If it has not cleared by that time they will return to Berlin.

BERLIN, March 27.—The German Lufthansa today definitely disclaimed all responsibility for the projected transatlantic flight of Captain Koehl in his plane, the Bremen, by announcing that he had automatically "fired" himself from the company's employ when he hopped off from Berlin to Baldonnel.

Koehl broke his contract and thereby disassociated himself from us," company officials stated.

Meanwhile high army aviation officials and the German press continued extremely skeptical of the practicability of the flight at this time. Several papers editorially warned the flier and his companions that they were embarking on a "foolhardy" enterprise.

ALLEGED SLAYER ATTENDS FUNERAL

COLUMBUS, O., March 27.—Though charged with the first-degree murder of his wife Minnie, Arthur Battelle, 41, of Grove City, this morning attended the funeral of his slain mate when last rites were held in the little cemetery at Obetz Junction, near here.

Battelle visited the cemetery in custody of sheriff's deputies, while the eight Battelle children were accompanied by relatives of their mother.

Mrs. Battelle was struck with a hammer, during a quarrel, last Thursday. Battelle fled but was arrested the next day.

WITH THE LEGION OF MISSING

Mrs. Walter Hinchliffe and her children still hope for favorable news of the British ace who braved the Atlantic with the Hon. Elsie Mackay in the monoplane "Endeavor." The latter picture shows the plane taking off from the snow-covered aerodrome at Cramwell, headed for the United States. Their fate is still a matter for conjecture.

PULLMAN PORTERS PREPARE TO TAKE STRIKE VOTE; ASK RAISE

NEW YORK, March 27.—Seven thousand Pullman porters throughout the country are taking a strike vote. Ballots were sent to the principal railroad centers by A. Phillip Randolph, general organizer of the Brotherhood of Pullman porters.

An increase in wages from the present rate of $2.50 a month to $3.50.

Reduction of monthly working hours from the 400 now prevailing.

Recognition of the union by the Pullman company.

The strike vote now being taken is intended to create a "state of emergency," which, under the Watson-Parker act for the adjustment of railroad disputes, would necessitate the appointment by President Coolidge of an emergency board of arbitration to consider the dispute between the brotherhood and the Pullman company.

CALIFORNIA IN GRIP OF FLOODS

SACRAMENTO RIVER FORCES HUNDREDS TO EVACUATE HOMES

Collapse Of Levee On Feather River Causes Distress

YUBA CITY, Cal., March 27.—The Feather River smashed its way through half a mile of levee below here today, flooded 20,000 acres of orchard land and drove 100 families to the hills.

Whether all escaped is unknown. Ten feet of water swirls about the homes they vacated.

The collapse of the levee spelled defeat after a forty-eight hour fight by ranchers who labored to stop a leak discovered Sunday night.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., March 27.—While North Sacramento, flood-stricken suburb of California's capital city, ministered to 400 homeless families, counted its tremendous property losses and searched a swollen expanse of water for bodies of those believed missing, a new flood peak, mounting as it neared the "bottle-neck," rushed down the Sacramento River today toward this city.

The American River, which pours into the Sacramento River just above here, also rose sharply early today, but it was not believed the new flood would reach the proportions of the angry torrent that brought death and destruction to North Sacramento yesterday. At Folsom today, the American had jumped two feet above the gauge record last night, but was still short of the peak load carried yesterday morning.

Sacramento, with its bulwark of levees and huge diversion canal, will not be endangered by the crest of the flood pouring down the Sacramento River, N. R. Taylor, chief of the weather bureau said.

In North Sacramento, dawn found hundreds of refugees lined up for breakfast in emergency quarters established by relief agencies, while two squads of national guardsmen patrolled the district to prevent looting of flooded homes.

No word has been heard from several Japanese families reported marooned above Woodlake when the flood was at its crest, no bodies have been recovered, except for that of Zachariah Parker, 78, who was swept to his death while attempting to escape with his family.

Property damage in the North Sacramento area alone, it was estimated today, will total between $150,000 and $200,000. Heavy damage also has been caused to orchard lands in the upper Sacramento Valley, near Biggs, Gridley and Oroville.

Col. Andrews' successor is expected to be named within a month or six weeks by the board. In the meantime, Miss E. Jane Bailey, Wapakoneta, O., member of the board, is representing that body in charge of affairs at the institution. Three applications for the position of superintendent have already been filed it is said.

Col. Andrews left Tuesday to take up his work as senior National Guard officer in the Ohio mining region, where he will act as supervisor and overseer in charge of National Guard relief work among miners' children.

His resignation is declared by board members to be the result of his reaction to adverse criticism of his administration. A majority of the trustees was in sympathy with Col. Andrews' policy, it is said. He served as head of the institution almost three years, coming here from Columbus where he was in the adjutant general's office. He was formerly mayor of Marion, O., and served in the Spanish-American and World Wars.

Construction work at the Home will go forward, including the $100,000 hospital, plans for which were approved by the board recently. The hospital is expected to be completed by next fall.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—Henry Ford may be called to testify at the senate's coal investigation, committee members indicated today.

Information has been presented to the committee that Ford, who operates mines in West Virginia and Kentucky, pays his men $3 a day, while nearby open shop companies pay a top of $5 daily.

The reported Ford scale is above the Jacksonville wage which the union is striking to maintain.

NEW YORK, March 27.—Frances "Peaches" Browning, back in the spotlight of publicity, played to capacity audiences at a vaudeville house today while the rift between her booking agent, Edgar Allen, and his wife grew wider.

The trouble started when Mrs. Allen thought she recognized a glittering bracelet worn by "Peaches" as one of her own. She immediately packed up all of her husband's belongings and shipped them to a

Ends Long Sleep

Ruth Chandler of Raymondville, Texas, aged 18, is now fully recovered from the sleeping sickness of which she was a victim for 60 days. During her sleep she lost more than forty pounds, but finally her malady yielded to electric treatments and she is again in robust health.

TRUSTEES ACT TO SELECT NEW HOME OFFICER

Will Ask Patriotic Bodies To Suggest Candidates

Trustees of the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home, are communicating with heads of the American Legion, United Spanish American War Veterans and the Grand Army of the Republic to obtain recommendations for a successor to Col. T. E. Andrews, resigned superintendent of the Home.

The various organization heads are being asked to suggest three or four names of men eligible to fill the vacancy.

BODY OF SLAIN GIRL IS FOUND LODGED IN TREE

Will Press Murder Charge Against William Herron

DOVER, O., March 27.—Murder charges pending against William Herron, New Philadelphia, were to be heard today, following the discovery of the body of Miss Viola May, 23, in the Tuscarawas River, late yesterday. The girl had been missing since Feb. 7. Her body was found lodged in a tree where the river skirts the industrial section of the town.

According to a confession reported to have been made by Herron the day after the girl's disappearance, she was choked to death by him after an attack upon her. Herron who was her brother-in-law at first reported that he and the girl had been attacked by robbers, but later told authorities he threw her body into the river when he learned she was dead.

Herron was accompanying the girl to her residence from his home on the night of Feb. 7, after she had visited her sister, Herron's wife.

Reports of physicians who examined the girl's body, are expected to be withheld, though the examination is said to have indicated that the girl was dead when her body was thrown into the water, and that no evidence of an attack was found.

The girl's wrist watch and $7 were found on the body.

Miss May will be buried tomorrow afternoon following private funeral services at the Jerusalem Reformed Church of which she was a life long member. Burial will be made in the church cemetery.

AMSTERDAM, March 27.—Mrs. Van Eggen, niece of Sir Henri Deterding, head of the Royal Dutch Petroleum Company, and the only woman member of the Dutch Stock Exchange, who was shot yesterday, will recover, it was officially announced today.

According to the police, Mrs. Van Eggen was shot by her husband who shot and killed himself. The husband is reported to have suffered heavy financial losses on the stock exchange.

Mrs. Van Eggen was shot in the throat.

MOSCOW, March 27.—Seventy Norwegian seamen today were believed to have been lost when ten small vessels used for sealing were sunk during a terrific storm in the White Sea.

The crews of four of the craft were rescued by other vessels but those of the other six are believed lost. All ten vessels were of Norwegian registry.

FEDERAL PROBE WILL BE INSTITUTED; TWO OTHERS ARE DAMAGED

Houses Of Judge And District Attorney Attacked—
No Injuries Result In Chicago Outrages
—Blame Politics

CHICAGO, March 27.—Federal investigation of the bombings which last night wrecked the homes of United States Senator Charles S. Deneen and Judge John A. Swanson was promised today by United States District Attorney George F. Q. Johnson.

The front porch and a large section of the front of Senator Deneen's palatial two-story residence were demolished by a powerful dynamite bomb, exploded shortly before midnight.

Twenty minutes later a similar blast damaged the home of Judge Swanson, a candidate under the Deneen Republican banner for state's attorney of Cook County. The second blast was believed aimed at Judge Swanson in an effort to assassinate him.

No member of either household sustained injuries, but several in the bombed buildings collapsed from shock and were reported today in critical condition.

Senator Deneen was not at home, having departed for Washington after attending the funeral here of "Diamond Joe" Esposito, Deneen's twenty-fifth ward leader who was felled last Wednesday night by fifty-eight slugs from gangsters' guns.

Senator Deneen's sister, Miss Florence Deneen, and a maid were alone in the house when the bomb exploded.

Judge Swanson had just parked his car in front of his home and had started toward the entrance when the second blast went off. The bomb was hurled by men who sped past the house in an automobile. Judge Swanson declared he is convinced the bomb was intended for him. It struck the house and bounded back into the yard where it exploded. Damage to his house was estimated at $4,000.

In the home at the time were his wife and two small children and their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Klaas.

The bomb outrages are attributed to the bitter political feud between Illinois Republican factions headed on one side by Senator Deneen and on the other by Governor Len Small, Mayor William Hale Thompson of Chicago, State Attorney Robert E. Crowe.

In promising the federal investigation District Attorney Johnson said:

"Inasmuch as Senator Deneen's residence is the official home of an officer of the United States, I shall use my office to investigate the outrage."

Today the home of every Deneen leader in the city was placed under heavy guard. Plain clothes men were stationed on the premises and detective bureau squads patrolled neighborhood streets.

Senator Deneen's son, Charles Ashley Deneen, visited his father's home when he learned of the bombing, but refused to issue any statement. He estimated the damage at "several thousand dollars."

Among those who met the Illinois senator at the station was Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover.

Senator Deneen went directly from Union Station to his office in the capitol where he called his family here to assure them of his safety, and then he telephoned to his political lieutenants in Chicago for details of the bombing.

"This outrage," he said, "will serve to awaken the people of Chicago to the kind of thing they are up against."

"The organized and protected criminal classes of Chicago are getting desperate now in their efforts to stage off defeat. We have them licked and they know it."

The Illinois senator said he had no fears for his personal safety. He said he did not believe the bombing was inspired by personal animosity to himself, but rather was due to "terroristic activities" by certain Chicago political factions.

He said he may decide to return to Chicago today.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—Indignant over the bombing of his home in Chicago, Senator Charles S. Deneen (R) of Illinois reached here this morning, and immediately issued a declaration of defiance to political "enemies" whom he held responsible for the outrage.

"In my judgment," Deneen told International News Service, "the bombing of my home last night was the work of the organized and protected criminal classes of Chicago and Cook County in their desperate efforts to retain control of the city and county."

He said he may decide to return to Chicago today.

Steamer Of Detroit III Gets In Distress During Heavy Fog—Tugs Attempting To Float Vessel—Passengers Removed

DETROIT, March 27.—Tugs were attempting today to float the steamer City of Detroit III, which went aground yesterday in the Livingston Channel. More than 250 passengers were marooned for seventeen hours.

The City of Detroit III was halted by a heavy fog yesterday afternoon. When the fog lifted the steamer moved toward Detroit. As the ship entered the Livingston Channel the fog fell again and the steamer ran aground.

A tug was sent to aid the steamer but finding it impossible to pull the ship from her mud berth, the tug returned to Amherstburg, Ont., with a few passengers.

In the meantime the skipper of a rum running craft, seeing the City of Detroit III in distress went alongside and took off six passengers. H. M. Crawford, Detroit; M. J. Spero, G. D. Godfrey, Arthur Thomas, all of Cleveland; W. L. Blair, of Meadville, Pa.; and H. Friedberg, of New York City. They were landed at Amherstburg.

The ferry Promise took off the other passengers.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wickman and their two sons, Alfred, 5, and Paul, 4, of Cleveland, arrived in Detroit shortly after midnight. They made for the nearest hotel. Other passengers from Cleveland were taken to Amherstburg, Ont., and Max E. Gottlieb, a business man.

A party of twelve Hungarian business men, forming a part of the Hungarian good will delegation were also aboard.

COUNTERFEITERS

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 27.—Charles P. Kelley, Youngstown and Glenn K. According to Samuel S. Doty, photographer for a local newspaper, he was approached by the two men, members of the Tube Company's police force, with a proposition that he make checks, for which Doty said, he was promised $20,000.

Instead, Doty, co-operating with his employers, Sheet and Tube of Bials, the county prosecutor and detectives, planted a dictograph and a stenographer in a studio "dark room" which resulted in Kelley and Elliott being taken into custody.

TRUSTEES ACT TO SELECT NEW HOME OFFICER

Will Ask Patriotic Bodies To Suggest Candidates

Trustees of the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home, are communicating with heads of the American Legion, United Spanish American War Veterans and the Grand Army of the Republic to obtain recommendations for a successor to Col. T. E. Andrews, resigned superintendent of the Home.

The various organization heads are being asked to suggest three or four names of men eligible to fill the vacancy.

Col. Andrews' successor is expected to be named within a month or six weeks by the board. In the meantime, Miss E. Jane Bailey, Wapakoneta, O., member of the board, is representing that body in charge of affairs at the institution.

Three applications for the position of superintendent have already been filed it is said.

Col. Andrews left Tuesday to head his unit as senior National Guard officer in the Ohio mining region, where he will act as supervisor and overseer in charge of National Guard relief work among miners' children.

His resignation is declared by board members to be the result of his reaction to adverse criticism of his administration. A majority of the trustees was in sympathy with Col. Andrews' policy, it is said. He served as head of the institution almost three years, coming here from Columbus where he was in the adjutant general's office. He was formerly mayor of Marion, O., and served in the Spanish-American and World Wars.

Construction work at the Home will go forward, including the $100,000 hospital, plans for which were approved by the board recently. The hospital is expected to be completed by next fall.

CONDITION OF MRS.
LEMIRA GOODHUE
REPORTED SERIOUS

Wife Of President
Hurries To Bedside Of Her Mother

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., March 27.—Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, wife of the president, was at the bedside of her mother, Mrs. Lemira Goodhue, today.

The stricken mother at Dickinson-Coolidge Hospital seemed cheered by the early morning visit of her daughter, who hastened here from Washington by the bedside of her mother from 1:45 a. m. to 2:45 a. m.

Mrs. Goodhue recognized Mrs. Coolidge and the two conversed for a few moments. The rest of the time Mrs. Coolidge sat by her mother's bedside with her friend, Mrs. Rufus B. Hill, who accompanied her from Washington.

Mrs. Goodhue's physician, Dr. Justin E. Hayes, said after Mrs. Coolidge's visit:

"Mrs. Goodhue's condition can be considered fair, but the still is a somewhat improved from what it was when Mrs. Coolidge visited to come here."

Dr. Hayes declined to hazard a guess as to how long Mrs. Goodhue might live, but he still is a guess, he said, "it would not be fair to guess."

Mrs. Goodhue is 78.

While President Coolidge did not accompany his wife here it was said by members of the party that he stands prepared to leave at a moment's notice "if Mrs. Coolidge calls for him."

Mrs. Goodhue has been in the hospital since December 11 and this is the third visit that Mrs. Coolidge had made to Northampton since her mother was stricken with influenza, a sudden sinking spell causing the third hurried visit to day.

He said he may decide to return to Chicago today.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—In dignified manner the bombing of his home in Chicago, Senator Charles S. Deneen (R) of Illinois reached here this morning, and immediately issued a declaration of defiance to "political enemies" whom he held responsible for the outrage.

"In my judgment," Deneen told International News Service, "the bombing of my home last night was the work of the organized and protected criminal classes of Chicago and Cook County in their desperate efforts to retain control of the city and country."

FEDERAL PROBE WILL BE INSTITUTED; TWO OTHERS ARE DAMAGED

Houses Of Judge And District Attorney Attacked—
No Injuries Result In Chicago Outrages
—Blame Politics

CHICAGO, March 27.—Federal investigation of the bombings which last night wrecked the homes of United States Senator Charles S. Deneen and Judge John A. Swanson was promised today by United States District Attorney George F. O. Johnson.

The front porch and a large section of the front of Senator Deneen's palatial two-story residence were demolished by a powerful dynamite bomb, exploded shortly before midnight.

Twenty minutes later a similar blast damaged the home of Judge Swanson, a candidate under the Deneen Republican banner for state's attorney of Cook County. The second blast was believed aimed at Judge Swanson in an effort to assassinate him.

No member of either household sustained injuries, but several in the bombed buildings collapsed from shock and were reported today in critical condition.

Senator Deneen was not at home, having departed for Washington after attending the funeral here of "Diamond Joe" Esposito, Deneen's twenty-fifth ward leader, who was felled last Wednesday night by fifty-eight slugs from gangsters' guns.

Senator Deneen's sister, Miss Florence Deneen, and a maid were alone in the house when the bomb exploded.

Judge Swanson had just parked his car in front of his home and had started toward the entrance when the second blast went off. The bomb was hurled by men who sped past the house in an automobile.

Judge Swanson declared he is convinced the bomb was intended for him. It struck the house and bounded back into the yard where it exploded. Damage to his house was estimated at $1,000.

In the home at the time were his wife and two small children and their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Klaas.

The bomb outrages are attributed to the bitter political feud between Illinois Republican factions headed on one side by Senator Deneen and on the other by Governor Len Small, Mayor William Hale Thompson of Chicago, State Attorney Robert E. Crowe.

In promising the federal investigation District Attorney Johnson said:

"Inasmuch as Senator Deneen's residence is the official home of an officer of the United States, I shall use my office to investigate the outrage."

Today the home of every Deneen leader in the city was placed under heavy guard. Plain clothes men were stationed on the premises and detective bureau squads patrolled neighborhood streets.

Senator Deneen's son, Charles Ashley Deneen, who lives in his home when he learned of the bombing, but refused to issue any statement. He estimated the damage at "several thousand dollars."

Among those who met the Illinois senator at the station was Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover.

Senator Deneen went directly from Union Station to his office in the capitol where he called his family here to assure them of his safety, and then he telephoned to his political friends in Chicago for details of the bombing.

"This outrage," he said, "will serve to awaken the people of Chicago to the kind of thing they are up against."

"The organized and protected criminal classes of Chicago are getting desperate now in their efforts to stave off defeat. We have them licked and they know it."

The Illinois senator said he had no fears for his personal safety. He said he did not believe the bombing was inspired by personal animosity to himself, but rather was due to "terroristic activities" by certain Chicago political factions.

He said he may decide to return to Chicago today.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—In dignified manner the bombing of his home in Chicago, Senator Charles S. Deneen (R) of Illinois reached here this morning, and immediately issued a declaration of defiance to "political enemies" whom he held responsible for the outrage.

"In my judgment," Deneen told International News Service, "the bombing of my home last night was the work of the organized and protected criminal classes of Chicago and Cook County in their desperate efforts to retain control of the city and country."

PROBE PLANE CRASH THAT KILLED ACE

SAN FRANCISCO, March 27.—A specially appointed board of three army officers, stationed at the United States presidio here, opened an inquiry today into the cause of the fatal airplane plunge that cost the life of Lieut. Theodore Munchof, World War ace, yesterday.

Piloting an army De Havilland plane, Lieut. Munchof was drowned when the craft fell into San Francisco Bay from an altitude of 200 feet. His flying companion, Sergeant William L. Klatz, whose home is in Concord, N. C., was thrown clear of the observer's seat just before the plane hit the water. He was rescued.

They're Mine

By Edna Wallace Hopper
Many women in my audience ask whether my teeth are my own. It probably is natural to wonder whether a woman in her sixties has retained her teeth. Mine are my own and I'm careful of them. I have always been as diligent in cleaning my teeth as I have been in caring for my skin. I used to use a dentifrice, a mouth wash and a deodorant to sweeten my breath.

Now I am able to obtain all these necessary guards in a five-in-one dentifrice. It has a pleasant, mild taste, is an effective cleanser and polisher, and best of all, contains milk of magnesia, which I formerly had to use separately as a mouth wash. This combats the ever-present acids, which are destructive to enamel.

Experts collaborated to produce Quintdent. Now you can get it at your local toilet counter. The price is 50 cents for a large tube. Adv.

OLD OFFENDERS ARE GIVEN UNTIL MARCH 31 TO SETTLE FINES

Police Chief M. E. Graham is issuing an ultimatum to offenders who have been convicted of various offenses before Mayor John Prugh and who have been permitted to pay off the resultant fines and costs on a "time" or installment basis at Police Headquarters, meanwhile enjoying their liberty.

The payments in a majority of cases have been so few and far between, or, in other words, are being made so slowly, that Chief Graham has decided all debts listed on the books must be paid in full on or before Saturday, March 31.

The alternative will be confinement in the County Jail until the balance due in each case is worked out at the regular rate per day, he warns.

Chief Graham disclosed that the police department has the names of more than thirty creditors who owe the city nearly $900 in old fines and costs.

JUSTICE SIDDONS CLEARED OF WHISPERED CHARGES BY NYE

WASHINGTON, March 27.—Justice Frederick L. Siddons, of the District of Columbia Supreme Court, has been cleared of all whispered charges made by a mysterious witness in Chicago before the senate oil committee.

Siddons, who presided over the Sinclair-Fall trial last winter, will be publicly exonerated by Senator Nye (R) of North Dakota, chairman of the senate public lands committee, it was said, at one of its early sessions. The inquiry revealed that the story, told by a mysterious witness, was unfounded. In it, Siddons was linked to a mysterious package said to have been forwarded to Washington by officials of the Sinclair Oil Company.

As a result of the inquiry, Siddons will be given a "clean bill of health" because of the publicity given the charges ten days ago. At the time, Siddons issued a prompt denial of any wrongdoing. The senate committee will hold its next public hearing Friday.

NEW LEXINGTON, O., March 27.—C. A. McIntyre, 38, for a number of years mayor of the village of Santoy, this county, is dead today, having succumbed yesterday at Athens State Hospital to a long illness.

CROSS COUNTRY BUS ROUTE IS PLANNED; OFFER CHEAP FARE

NEW YORK, March 27.—Transcontinental bus service, New York to Los Angeles, will be started soon if plans now under way go through without a hitch. A gigantic merger involving 232 bus companies from coast to coast, will make the service possible. The trip will require six days and six nights and the cost will be $56.50, half of the present railroad fare.

The system, operated under the National Motor Bus Association, Chicago, will connect the Independent lines now in operation, and will include equipment valued at more than $150,000,000, not including state franchises.

Traffic in the east will be handled by the Cardinal Lines, which operates between New York and Philadelphia. Other large companies are the Interstate Motor Bus Line, Western Motorway, Pacific Coast Lines, and Southern Transportation Lines.

Final papers making effective this first transcontinental bus merger were reported to have been signed at a conference in the Hotel Commodore, this city, on Saturday. Details as to how the cross-country traffic will be handled are now being worked out, according to Martin Rubin, New York legal representative of the company.

When details are complete two buses will leave New York City every day for Los Angeles. Later there will be two through buses, equipped with sleeping accommodations, dining car service and all the conveniences found on trains, Rubin said.

"The Pullman idea is now being used on the Pacific Coast," Rubin declared. "There is no reason why it will not be practical to his travel. The present buses are luxurious affairs, and are equipped with washrooms."

Rubin said that last year there were 95,000 buses operating in the United States, carrying more passengers than the combined railroads. The group entering the present merger, he asserted, carried more passengers than any one railroad outside of the Pennsylvania system.

The transcontinental bus service is expected to be in operation within a few weeks. Air travel will be inaugurated later, according to a spokesman for Herman F. Wenzel, president of the new company. Several Ford stout air liners are said to be included in the merger and others are to be added.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

A SAFE GUIDE—In all thy ways acknowledge God, and he shall direct thy paths.—Prov. 3:6.

TIME AND MONEY

Every one has possessed two commodities that are greatly valued by human beings—time and money. Perhaps you still have some of each of these commodities. But what did you do with the time and money you had?

Most persons will say regretfully that they have mispent much time and money. Arriving at a certain age, they say to themselves, "Well, I am a year older, but I am not a year richer. I have wasted my time and money."

There is such a thing as wasting time, of course, and one can waste money. But an activity that would be time wasting for one person might be excellent investment of time for another. For instance, one person may not invest his time better than in listening to a good symphony concert, while for another such activity would be criminal waste of time.

On the other hand, a bridge game would be sinful waste of time for one, while for another it is a beautiful use of golden hours, because they get real pleasure, recreation and social stimulus from it.

Since time is the most valuable possession you have—the stuff of which life is made—as much thought should be given to its proper spending as you give to the spending of your money.

SPRING-TIME AMBITION

Spring is the season when new energy and hope rise in the blood courses of man like the sap in the trees. It is the invisible urge which makes man plan gardens, renew the home, plan for the future and make noble resolves. People who don't feel the spirit of spring have forever lost the spirit of life itself.

It is lamentable that the season for making resolutions is in mid-winter. For every reason except the calendar new resolutions for change of human conduct should come with the first warm breeze of spring. Resolution is born of inspiration and human beings, like hibernating beasts and winter blasted vegetation, are inspired by nature's warmth alone.

Most of us mistake spring fever for a tired, care-free feeling when a real analysis reveals it as a feeling of impatience for greater things, inspired ambition and a devouring desire to get away to see and know all. Spring fever is a much maligned human experience. That spring-time desire for a new job, a new house and new scenes isn't indolence and lethargy as commonly conceived. It is nature's impetus for poets, artists, explorers, inventors and all the rest of the world's dream children.

It wouldn't do for all of us to have good manners. Somebody must yell "Down in front!"

Winning an argument by calling a friend narrow-minded doesn't count.

Many men who thought they were going to have trouble getting through leap year are gradually being convinced that they were unduly alarmed.

The Way of the World

By GROVE PATTERSON

THEY DON'T CLICK

After studying more than 1,000 Sunday school lessons, Prof. Norman E. Richardson, Northwestern university, finds that the lessons are "astoundingly lacking" in the treatment of any of the real moral problems that confront youth. And Prof. Richardson has gone further. He has examined into the opinions and habits of some 5,000 youngsters of high school age. When the results of his diagnosis have been classified and studied, the next move will be to lay out some kind of "preventive moral training" which will be like preventive medicine. The Sunday school and the week-day Bible school can be made clinics of the highest usefulness when teachers face up to the realities of the life of youth and better understand its embarrassing problems.

THE BEST SPENDING

President Lowell, of Harvard, charges that the American public schools are extravagant. That is nothing to worry about so long as the additional money is spent to devise and operate better methods of education. And public school systems are being constantly improved. President Lowell might well make the same charge, and to better purpose, against the United States navy department or against a careless congress. If there is any place where money ought to be spent freely it is on schools.

BY ROADS AND BY AIR

Regions far up in Canada are now supplied with mail service by airplanes. The refinements of civilization inevitably follow the building of roads. Roads into remote districts in the United States are putting primitive people in touch with the more advanced life of the cities. Now the airplane in even more difficult and remote districts is doing the same thing. Civilization follows the roads and civilization follows the air routes.

PASSING OUT

Figures but lately in the foreground of history pass out of the sight and remembrance of men. Fame only picks here and there a head for the crown of immortality. Lichnowsky is dead. He was the last of the kaiser's ambassadors to England. He feared the war, worked hard to prevent it, and warned the kaiser. The German emperor read Lichnowsky's message and wrote "bunk" across the pages. The once famous ambassador is out of the world and the kaiser out of public notice.

We may take ourselves as seriously as we choose. Few others will—for long.

WHEN STRONG DISLIKES ARE VALUABLE

For many years a certain successful merchant, when buying goods for women's wear, has made it a rule to seek something that makes him, as he expressed it, either mad or glad. He says that it does not matter whether he likes or dislikes a design, so long as he has a strong feeling about it, one way or the other. Invariably, he declares, if a design or fabric seems to bad to him that it irritates him, a certain proportion of his women customers will rave about it. Others will dislike it just as much as he does, and will buy the kind of style that he himself would prefer. The idea is that a striking article, one which makes a definite impression, will meet with both approval and disapproval, according to how one looks at it. This merchant never buys what may be termed a neutral article, one which fails to impress him as either very good or very bad. For he has found that unless it causes a positive reaction in his mind it will not sell readily. It will appeal neither to those who like what he does, nor to those who like what he hates.

One day a manufacturer came to him with three dozen suits that he hadn't been able to dispose of. They were terrible looking outfits of weird color, and of a design which suggested that the tailor might cut them out with a knife and fork.

"I haven't the nerve to charge you for these," said the manufacturer, "but I wish you would take them and try to sell them. If you do, just pay me whatever you think right."

The merchant did so. He placed one of the bizarre suits in the window, with a low price, fixed at random. Sure enough, the suit was so bad that many women decided that it must be good. Every one of the three dozen was sold within 24 hours. Such is human nature. With so many kinds of people in the world, almost every shade of taste has its direct opposite. The kind of a woman one man might pick for a wife would not appeal to some other fellow as worth even a fraction of her upkeep. So it goes.

At the first political meeting I ever attended a local politician got up, following a dignified speaker of renown, and proclaimed: "You're going to hear now from a man just as common as any of you."

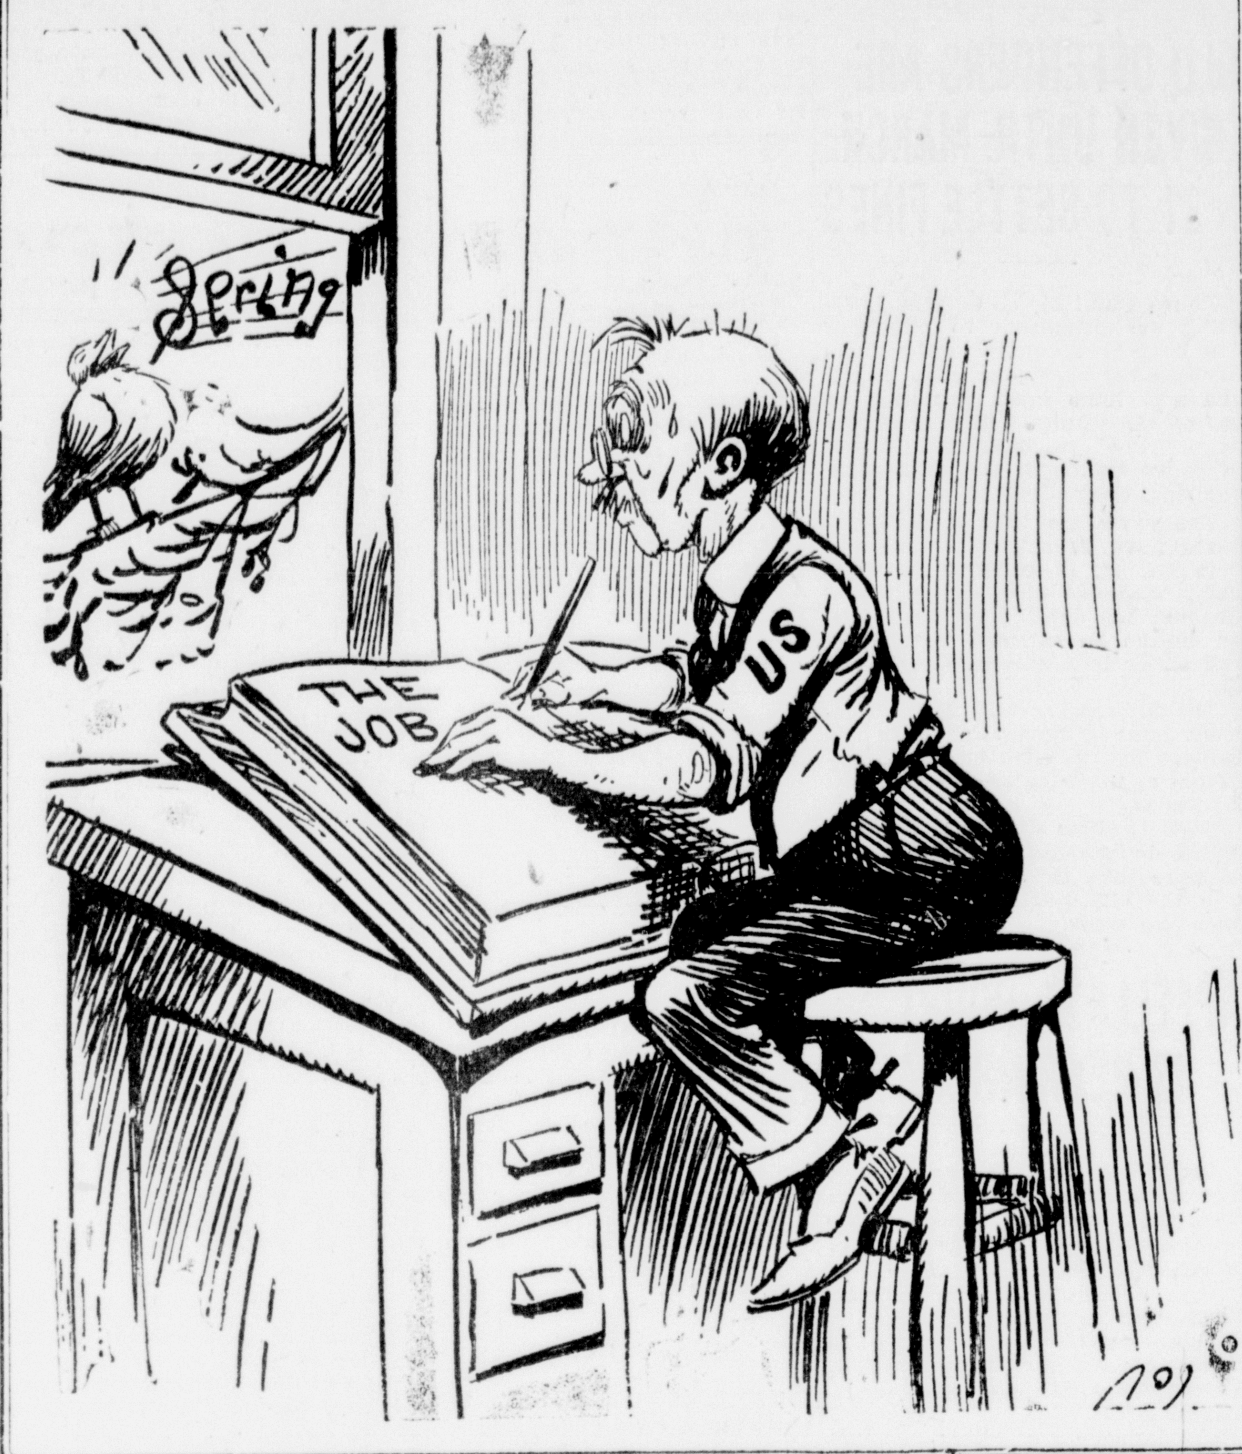

He devoted most of his speech to telling of his humble origin, and insisting that he was just a plain average man.

He knew that people like to vote for a man whom they regard as of their own kind. The logical way to get many voters, then, is to be of the class that is most numerous—plain, average folk. When a politician is over-insistent about being common it is a fair presumption that he is merely a hypocrite seeking average men's support.

How to Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

HOW NEARLY DO YOU MEASURE UP TO THE IDEAL WOMAN?

How near are your bodily measurements to the ideal of artists? Here is an easy way to find out. The ideal feminine (and masculine, too), figure measures seven and a half heads high. That is, your head should be less than a seventh the height of your whole body. You can estimate this exactly with a measuring rule.

Modern style has progressed a bit beyond the barriers of art and beauty, and the sophisticated type, particularly she of the lithe, greyhound physique, usually measures eight heads, or even eight and a half heads high. However, a small head and a disproportionately long body, may be art—modern art—but it isn't beauty. And small heads do not suggest large brain cavities.

The proportions of the seven-and-a-half-head figure should be: Head, measured from the tip of the chin to the cranium, 8 3/4 to 9 inches, which makes the height of the normal figure 7 1/2 to 8 3/4 heads, or 5 feet 5 1/2 inches to 5 feet 6 inches tall. The second head should measure from the tip of the chin to the point of the bust; the third head from the bust to the waistline; the fourth head from the waist to the thighs; the fifth from the thighs to the garter line; the sixth from the garter line to the predominant point of the calf of the leg, and the seventh from the calf to the ankle. The extra half head takes in the distance from the ankle to the sole of the foot.

Remember that the things I am telling you today have nothing to do with fatness or thinness. I am talking only in terms of longitudinal relativity—the relative length of the various lines that contribute to total height. And these statements must be qualified to some extent.

There are certain racial characteristics which must be taken into consideration. The Latin races have a different head length than the Teuton or the Gaelic. You may be interested to know that the Teuton head predominates throughout the white race. Until a famous archeologist, investigating carvings which had been brought to light in the east, authenticated his findings solely through the length and breadth of the head of an illustrated figure. The carvings did not have a Teutonic head. Remember, I said, until a famous archeologist, investigating carvings which had been brought to light in the east, authenticated his findings solely through the length and breadth of the head of an illustrated figure.

Yardstick yourself on the seven-and-a-half-head rule, and set down the measurements for future reference in checking upon bodily proportions and their importance to beauty.

ANSWERS TO MOTHERS

God could not be everywhere; therefore He made mothers.

—Jewish Proverb.

Extra Bottles

Mrs. D.'s baby is four months old, fat and healthy. She nurses him, but sometimes he doesn't seem satisfied. May he have a feeding from the bottle during the day?

It may be possible that the baby is thirsty, Mrs. D. Do you give him some cool, boiled water, two or three times a day between feedings? While babies get a lot of water in their milk, they need some extra between meals.

Yes, you can give him one bottle feeding at the age of three or four months. This has several advantages. It gives the mother a long period between nursings so she can have some amusement, or do some work she wants to do; it accustoms the baby to the cow's milk which he will have to have sooner or later, and in case of sudden weaning, it is made much easier.

If possible, you should go to a clinic for a formula, but that may not be possible in your case, so I will give you some simple directions.

A baby usually can take from 1 1/2 to 2 ounces more at a feeding than he is months old. (He never has more than 8 ounces of a formula, however). Any new food introduced must be very dilute and gradually increased. For a baby around four months, use two ounces of milk and four ounces of water; boil them together vigorously for two or three minutes, stirring all the time so no scum will form. This will be for the first bottle. Next day, add a tablespoonful more of milk and one less of water, and continue every day to increase the milk, and decrease the water until in four days he is getting half milk and half water. On the third day, you can add one-half level teaspoonful of sugar or honey. This is not to make the food sweet, but to add more food value. The sugar may be milk sugar or dextrin-maltose, or even cane sugar, but the dextrin-maltose or honey are probably better. In two or three days more, bring up the sugar or honey to a level teaspoonful.

As he grows older, you can very gradually increase the milk. At seven or eight months he is getting whole milk. When he gets whole milk, you can omit the sugar. The milk need not be boiled after the first week or so; that is, if you are getting pasteurized milk or certified milk. Certified milk is a raw milk, but is graded from disease germs as much as is humanly possible.

Your baby should be having two tablespoonfuls or so of orange juice every day, by this time, Mrs. D. If he hasn't already had it, give him first one-half tablespoonful in his drinking water. Gradually increase until he is taking at least one ounce (two tablespoonfuls). He should also have a teaspoon or so of cod liver oil before one of his feedings. Begin this with five or six drops and increase two or three drops a day until he is getting his teaspoonful.

We have a list of books on the feeding and general care of children. Mrs. D., which you may have by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope and two cents in coin.

Mrs. M.—Sometimes baby girls will have a little inflammation of the genitalia with a little mucus discharge. This usually means nothing serious. Extreme cleanliness and a little application of some absorbent is all the treatment. Occasionally a baby girl will pass a few drops of blood. If the baby is perfectly well and has no other bleeding, this has no significance. However, for both conditions you should see a children's specialist or go to a baby clinic, to be sure.

Living and Loving

SELF-RESTRAINT

One thing that young people of today need—to say nothing of their elders—is self-restraint. There is too much of a tendency to excuse our faults—our outbursts of temper and excesses of various kinds—by thinking we may be harboring "complexes" if we restrain ourselves. Better an occasional inhibition, say I, than aching hearts hurt by our selfish lack of control.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am a young man, almost of age, self-supporting, and happy in my work and friends. Until the last few weeks I had as fine a little girl as ever was, but let my own mean temper make trouble between us. I left her, refusing even to bid her goodnight. Now her pride will not let her make up, even though I know—or at least feel—that we were made for each other. Shall I write to her and tell her how sorry I am? I have tried to talk to her, but she thinks I would not have hurt her feelings so had I cared for her. Please answer soon, as I must win her back, if possible.

"Heartbrokenly, PAUL." Yes, of course, write to her, Paul, and keep on writing and doing everything you can think of to convince her that you really are sorry. And try hard to restrain that "mean temper" of yours, for it will get you into a lot of trouble if allowed to rule you.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: Have gone with some boys, but never loved but one of them. I believe in having a pleasant time, but can't understand why some girls have been going along without getting. Do you think you should go with a boy that you don't love very much? I am almost out of my means and was writing to a nice boy, but mother thought I was too young and made us out. Do you think this was right? If you are just good friends and nothing more there is no reason why you shouldn't go with a boy you are not in love with. Violet. Possibly your mother knew something about this boy that you didn't, and that was why she objected to your correspondence.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am a young girl 18, and am in love with a young man two years my senior. I have been going with him about a year, but he is jealous of me. He doesn't even allow me to speak to my gentlemen friends. Shall I give him up? "UNDECIDED BLUE EYES."

If you expect to enjoy life you should give him up, dear.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, March 27. — Columbus, and that egg he stood on end, had nothing on Senator Borah and his popular subscription list to pay back the $160,000 to Harry F. Sinclair.

From the minute Bill announced it, it was as plain as day light that the thing would be as simple as drinking water, to put across.

The stroke of genius was in getting the bunch. In the whole history of politics, it's doubtful if ever another idea was thought up, with the widespread appeal of that stunt of Bill's.

The beauty of it is that Bill gets the sole benefit of it. His party organization not only deserves none of the credit for it, and gets none—it suffers, for letting Bill get the jump on it, the way he did. When Bill suggested that, as a Republican, he felt humiliated by those 160,000 smackers of Sinclair's, and urged his crowd to on their own outfit's part, at he wouldn't have taken it, at he did. They lacked, not alone Bill's originality; they lacked his nerve.

The upshot—Senator Borah will go into the Kansas City convention a darned dangerous man. He may go in with an airtight cinch.

More likely he'll go in without an absolute cinch, but with the entire crowd ready to stampede in his direction at the drop of the hat.

Ten days ago the ablest authorities would have laughed you to scorn if you'd made such a prediction. Perhaps they'd have conceded that a miracle might nominate Bill—but nothing less.

Our oil scandal has been a strange, strange thing.

Four years ago, according to all precedents, it ought to have smeared the dominant party flat, and it never phased 'em, which was queer circumstance No. 1.

Here lately it's transformed itself from an oil scandal into a campaign fund scandal—queer thing No. 2.

And then happened the queerest thing of all.

One or the other of two results seemed possible:

1. That the scandal wouldn't have any effect at all, as in 1924. 2. That at last it would get in its work, to the profit of the party of the "outs" and the humiliation of the party of the "ins."

Instead of either of which, it promises to be the making of Bill Borah, with no advantage to the "outs" and yet to the ruination of the "ins" who have had the running of things hitherto, for Bill flopped himself—neither "in" nor "out," or even one of those Progressives, so-called, who refuse classify either way.

Peter's Adventure

By MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

COWBIRD PLAYS A MEAN TRICK

"Would you believe it! Would you believe it!" screamed Father Red Eye. "Mother! Neighbors! Cowbird has laid an egg in Chipping Sparrow's nest, too. Well, you have companions in your misery, Chippy, if that is any comfort to you, for she laid one in ours."

"By my beak! Here flies Bluebird and she certainly is in a temper. Look at the feathers on her back—they are standing up straight. What is the matter, Bluebird?"

Peter and the wrens held their breath to hear Bluebird's reply, but when she answered she fairly screamed, so they had no trouble at all in getting every word.

"Matter!" Bluebird alighted on a branch close to the Vinos' nest. "Matter, I am so mad I can hardly see straight. I was gone from my nest only a moment and when I got back what do you think had happened?"

"A strange egg in your nest!" exclaimed Mother Red Eye excitedly. "Cowbird laid it!" declared Chipping Sparrow, sorrowfully. "Yes! Exactly! But how in the world did you both guess it?" Bluebird fairly gasped with astonishment.

"Because she laid one in mine," answered Mother Red Eye. "And in mine," added Chippy. "Well, I never! The brazen slacker!" Peter was now so excited that he quite forgot that the other birds had not seen him and might not like his speaking at this time.

"Are you birds going to let that horrid Mrs. Cowbird get away with it? Why don't you throw out her old eggs and then fly after her and peck out her feathers? I'll bet if you did that she would never try that trick again."

The birds, astonished, looked to see to whom the unfamiliar voice belonged, and it was Father Vireo who first caught sight of Peter. Growing much excited, he called the other birds' attention to him. "Do you hear me? Would you believe it? There is a Two-Legs up in the Wren's apartment. And he is trying to give us advice."

"Yes, he is, Red Eye, and if you would take it you would be better off," snapped Jenny Wren. "Don't you say anything mean to our guest. He is a fine chap, and if he is a Human he can give you silly birds pointers. He's never stumped for Cowbird's tricks and no more would I!"

"You would if she played them on you," cried Father Red Eye. "And as for Two-Legs, what does he know about it? I dare say, he means well, but he isn't a bird, and he can't understand a bird's troubles.

"We can't see the tiny nestling starve to death, and so even if it is an intruder we have to feed it. After all the baby Cowbird is there through no fault of its own, you know."

"Stuff and nonsense. I think with Two-Legs, that something can and ought to be done about such a dreadful thing. I, for one, will not feed a strange young 'un and starve my own babies. Cowbird left an egg with me yesterday, but a lot of food it will do her. I have just finished my nest, but when I found that I went out and got new material and built a new floor and the old egg is all walled in."

Determined as were these words, the voice that spoke them was very sweet and the boys saw that it came from the throat of a pretty little yellow bird that had flown to join the crowd.

Most persons will say regretfully that they have misspent much time and money. Arriving at a certain age, they say to themselves, "Well, I am a year older, but I am not a year richer. I have wasted my time and money."

There is such a thing as wasting time, of course, and one can waste money. But an activity that would be time wasting for one person might be excellent investment of time for another. For instance, one person may not invest his time better than in listening to a good symphony concert, while for another such activity would be criminal waste of time.

On the other hand, a bridge game would be sinful waste of time for one, while for another it is a beautiful use of golden hours, because they get real pleasure, recreation and social stimulus from it.

Since time is the most valuable possession you have—the stuff of which life is made—as much thought should be given to its proper spending as you give to the spending of your money.

SPRING-TIME AMBITION

Spring is the season when new energy and hope rise in the blood courses of man like the sap in the trees. It is the invisible urge which makes man plan gardens, renew the home, plan for the future and make noble resolves. People who don't feel the spirit of spring have forever lost the spirit of life itself.

It is lamentable that the season for making resolutions is in mid-winter. For every reason except the calendar new resolutions for change of human conduct should come with the first warm breeze of spring. Resolution is born of inspiration and human beings, like hibernating beasts and winter blasted vegetation, are inspired by nature's warmth alone.

Most of us mistake spring fever for a tired, care-free feeling when a real analysis reveals it as a feeling of impatience for greater things, inspired ambition and a devouring desire to get away to see and know all. Spring fever is a much maligned human experience. That spring-time desire for a new job, a new house and new scenes isn't indolence and lethargy as commonly conceived. It is nature's impetus for poets, artists, explorers, inventors and all the rest of the world's dream children.

It wouldn't do for all of us to have good manners. Somebody must yell "Down in front!"

Winning an argument by calling a friend narrow-minded doesn't count.

Many men who thought they were going to have trouble getting through leap year are gradually being convinced that they were unduly alarmed.

The Way of the World

THEY DON'T CLICK

After studying more than 1,000 Sunday school lessons, Prof. Norman E. Richardson, Northwestern University, finds that the lessons are "astoundingly lacking" in the treatment of any of the real moral problems that confront youth. And Prof. Richardson has gone further. He has examined into the opinions and habits of some 5,000 youngsters of high school age. When the results of his diagnosis have been classified and studied, the next move will be to lay out some kind of "preventive moral training" which will be like preventive medicine. The Sunday school and the week-day Bible school can be made clinics of the highest usefulness when teachers face up to the realities of the life of youth and better understand its embarrassing problems.

THE BEST SPENDING

President Lowell, of Harvard, charges that the American public schools are extravagant. That is nothing to worry about so long as the additional money is spent to devise and operate better methods of education. And public school systems are being constantly improved. President Lowell might well make the same charge, and to better purpose, against the United States navy department or against a careless congress. If there is any place where money ought to be spent freely it is on schools.

BY ROADS AND BY AIR

Regions far up in Canada are now supplied with mail service by airplanes. The refinements of civilization inevitably follow the building of roads. Roads into remote districts in the United States are putting primitive people in touch with the more advanced life of the cities. Now the airplane in even more difficult and remote districts is doing the same thing. Civilization follows the roads and civilization follows the air routes.

PASSING OUT

Figures but lately in the foreground of history pass out of the sight and remembrance of men. Fame only picks here and there a head for the crown of immortality. Lichnowsky is dead. He was the last of the kaiser's ambassadors to England. He feared the war, worked hard to prevent it, and warned the kaiser. The German emperor read Lichnowsky's message and wrote "bunk" across the paper. The once famous ambassador is out of the world and the kaiser out of public notice.

We may take ourselves as seriously as we choose. Few others will—for long.

WHEN STRONG DISLIKES ARE VALUABLE

For many years a certain successful merchant, when buying goods for women's wear, has made it a rule to seek something that makes him, as he expressed it, either mad or glad. He says that it does not matter whether he likes or dislikes a design, so long as he has a strong feeling about it, one way or the other. Invariably, he declares, if a design or fabric seems to him to be just what he needs, a certain proportion of his women customers will rave about it. Others will dislike it just as much as he does, and will buy the kind of style that he himself would prefer. The idea is that a striking article, one which makes a definite impression, will meet with both approval and disapproval, according to how one looks at it. This merchant never buys what is termed a neutral article, one which fails to impress him in either a very good or a very bad way. For he has found that unless it causes a positive reaction in his mind it will not sell readily. It will appeal neither to those who like what he does, nor to those who like what he hates.

One day a manufacturer came to him with three dozen suits that he hadn't been able to dispose of. They were terrible looking outfits of weird color, and of a design which suggested that the tailor might cut them out with a knife and fork.

"I haven't the nerve to charge you for these," said the manufacturer, "but I wish you would take them and try to sell them. If you do, just pay me whatever you think right."

The merchant did so. He placed one of the bizarre suits in the window, with a low price, fixed at random. Sure enough, the suit was so bad that many women decided that it must be good. Every one of the three dozen was sold within 24 hours. Such is human nature. With so many kinds of people in the world, almost every shading of taste has its direct opposite. The kind of a woman one man might pick for a wife could not appeal to some other fellow as worth even a fraction of her upkeep. So it goes.

At the first political meeting I ever attended, a local politician got up, following a dignified speaker of his own kind, and proclaimed: "You're going to hear now from a man just as common as any of you."

He devoted most of his speech to telling of his humble origin, and insisting that he was just a plain average man.

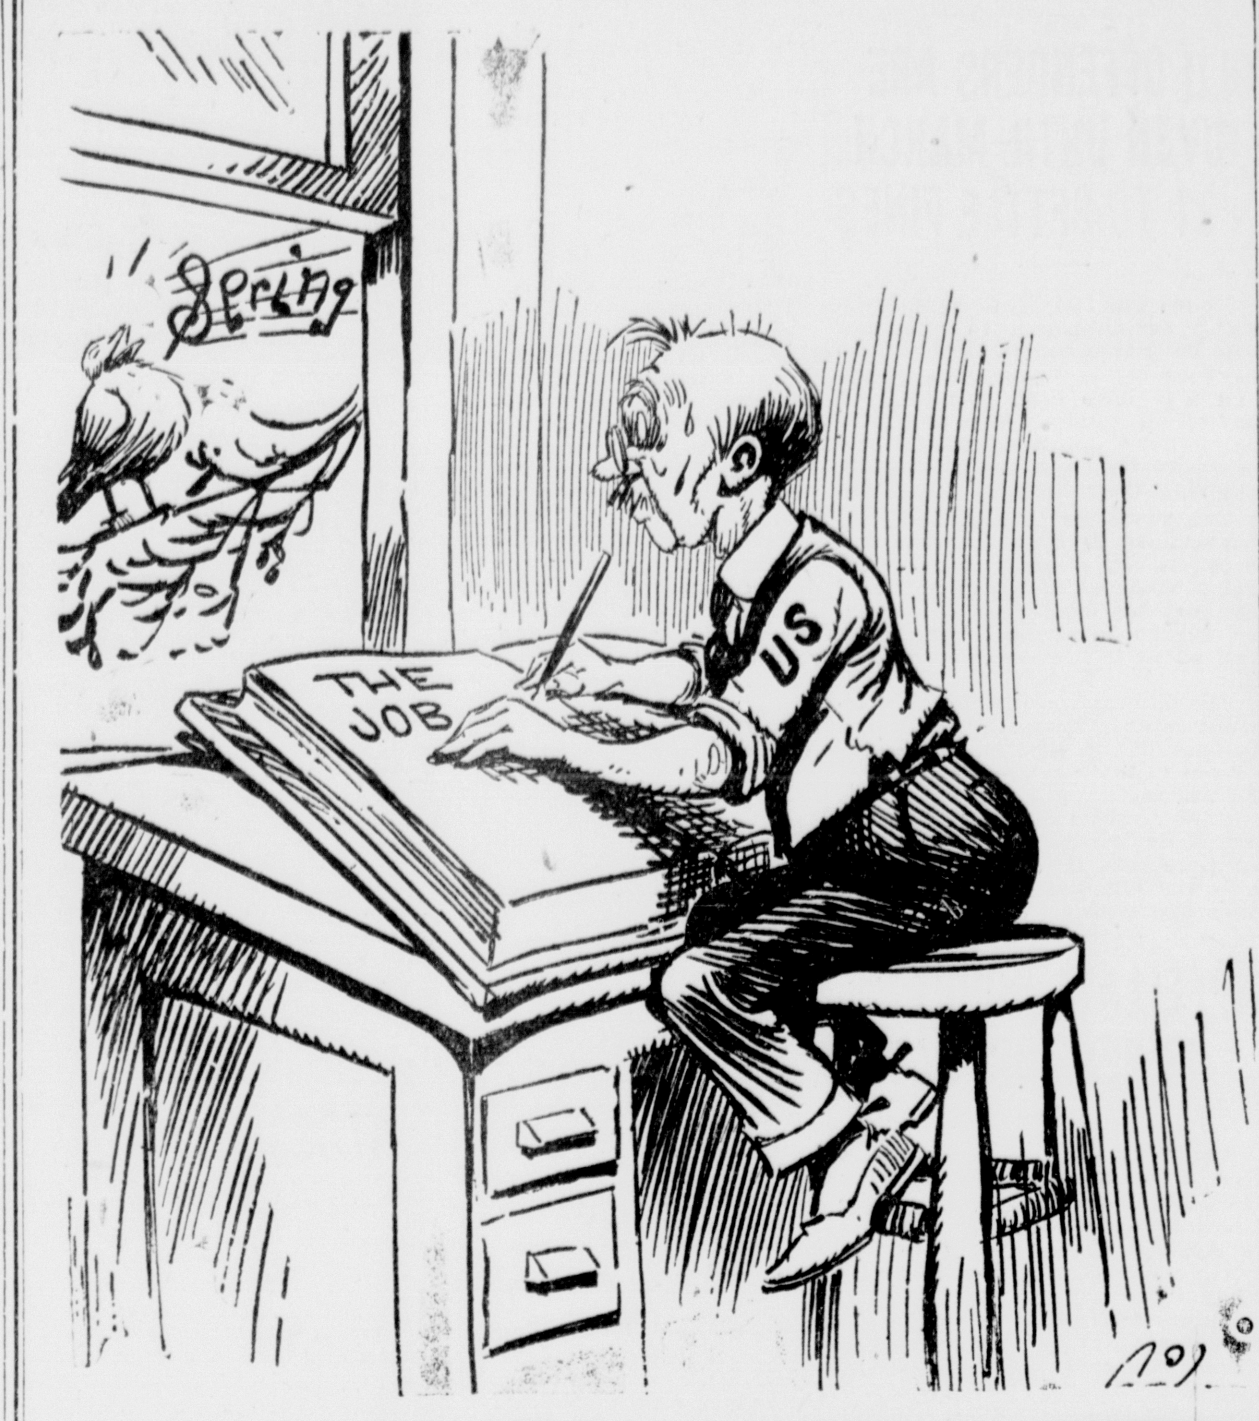

He knew that people like to vote for a man whom they regard as the ablest; "Madam, you must move your valise from the aisle," Colored Lady: "Fo' lawd sake, Mistah Conduh, dat ain't no valise, Dat's mah foot."

HOLD EVERYTHING!

How to Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

HOW NEARLY DO YOU MEASURE UP TO THE IDEAL WOMAN?

How near are your bodily measurements to the ideal of artists? Here is an easy way to find out. The ideal feminine (and masculine, too), figure measures seven and a half heads high. That is, your head should be less than a seventh the height of your whole body. You can estimate this exactly with a measuring rule.

Modern style has progressed a bit beyond the barriers of art and beauty, and the sophisticated type, particularly she of the lithe, greyhound physique, usually measures eight heads, or even eight and a half heads high. However, a small head and a disproportionately long body may be art—modern art—but it isn't beauty. And small heads do not suggest large brain cavities.

The proportions of the seven-and-a-half-head figure should be: Head, measured from the tip of the chin to the cranium, 8 3/4 to 9 inches, which makes the height of the normal figure 7 1/2 to 8 3/4 heads, or 5 feet 5 1/2 inches to 5 feet 6 inches tall. The second head should measure from the tip of the chin to the point of the bust; the third head from the bust to the waistline; the fourth head from the waist to the thighs; the fifth from the thighs to the garter line; the sixth from the garter line to the predominant point of the calf of the leg, and the seventh from the calf to the ankle. The extra half head takes in the distance from the ankle to the sole of the foot.

ANSWERS TO MOTHERS

God could not be everywhere; therefore He made mothers.

Extra Bottles

Mrs. D.'s baby is four months old, fat and healthy. She nurses him, but sometimes he doesn't seem satisfied. May he have a feeding from the bottle during the day?

It may be possible that the baby is thirsty, Mrs. D. Do you give him some cool, boiled water, two or three times a day between feedings? While babies get a lot of water in their milk, they need some extra between meals.

Yes, you can give him one bottle feeding at the age of three or four months. This has several advantages. It gives the mother a long period between nursings so she can have some amusement, or do some work she wants to do; it accustoms the baby to the cow's milk which he will have to have sooner or later, and in case of sudden weaning, it is made much easier.

If possible, you should go to a clinic for a formula, but that may not be possible in your case, so I will give some simple directions. A baby usually can take from 1 1/2 to 2 ounces more at a feeding than he is months old. (He need never have more than 8 ounces of a formula, however). Any new food introduced must be very digested and gradually increased. For a baby around four months, use sooner or later, and in case of sudden weaning, it is made much easier.

Every day, add a tablespoonful more of milk and one less of water, and continue every day to increase the milk and decrease the water until in four days he is getting half milk and half water. On the third day, you can add one-half level teaspoonful of sugar or honey. This to the predominant point of the calf of the leg, and the seventh from the calf to the ankle. The extra half head takes in the distance from the ankle to the sole of the foot.

Remember that the things I am telling you today have nothing to do with fatness or thinness. I am talking only in terms of longitudinal relative—the relative length of the various lines that contribute to total height. And these statements must be qualified to some extent.

There are certain racial characteristics which must be taken into consideration. The Latin races have a different head length than the Teuton or the Gaelic. You may be interested to know that the Teuton head predominates throughout the white race. Recently a famous archeologist, investigating carvings which had been brought to light in the east, authenticated his findings solely through the length and breadth of the head of an illustrated figure. The carvings did not have a Teutonic head. Rembrandt, Davinci, and the other old masters, painted exclusively the Teuton head.

Yardstick yourself on the seven-and-a-half-head figure, and set down the measurements for future reference in checking upon bodily proportions and their importance to beauty.

is not to make the food sweet, but to add more food value. The sugar may be milk sugar or dextrin-maltose, or even cane sugar, but the dextrin-maltose or honey are probably better. In two or three days more bring up the sugar or honey to a level teaspoonful.

As he grows older, you can very gradually increase the milk until at seven or eight months he is getting whole milk. When he gets whole milk, you can omit the sugar. The milk need not be boiled after the first week or so; that is, if you are getting pasteurized milk or certified milk. Certified milk is a raw milk, but is graded from disease germs as much as is humanly possible.

Your baby should be having two tablespoonfuls or so of orange juice every day, by this time, Mrs. D. If he hasn't already had it, give him first one-half tablespoonful in his drinking water. Gradually increase until he is taking at least one ounce (two tablespoonfuls). He should also have a teaspoon or so of cod liver oil before one of his feedings. Begin this with five or six drops and increase two or three drops a day until he is getting his teaspoonful.

We have a list of books on the feeding and general care of children. Mrs. D., which you may have by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope and two cents in coin.

Mrs. M.—Sometimes baby girls will have a little inflammation of the genitalia with a little mucus discharge. This usually means nothing serious. Extreme cleanliness and a little application of some aboline is all the treatment. Occasionally a baby girl will pass a few drops of blood. If the baby is perfectly well and has no other bleeding, this has no significance. However, for both conditions you should see a children's specialist or go to a baby clinic, to be sure.

SELF-RESTRAINT

One thing that young people of today need—to say nothing of their elders—is self-restraint. There is too much of a tendency to excuse our faults—our outbursts of temper and excesses of various kinds—by thinking we may be harboring "complexes" if we restrain ourselves. Better an occasional inhibition, say I, than aching hearts hurt by our selfish lack of control.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am a young man, almost of age, self-supporting, and happy in my work and friends. Until the last few weeks I had as fine a little girl as ever was, but let my own mean temper make trouble between us. I left her, refusing even to bid her goodnight. Now her pride will not let her make up, even though I know—or at least feel—that we were made for each other. Shall I write to her and tell her how sorry I am? I have tried to talk to her, but she thinks I would not have hurt her feelings so had I cared for her. Please answer soon, as I must win her back, if possible."

Yes, of course, write to her, Paul, and keep on writing and doing everything you can think of to convince her that you really are sorry. And try hard to restrain that "mean temper" of yours, for it will get you into a lot of trouble if allowed to rule you.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: Have gone with some boys, never loved but one of them. I believe in having a pleasant time, but can't understand why some girls can't get along without petting. Do you think you should go with a boy that you don't love very much? I am almost sure of my teens and was writing to a nice boy, but mother thought I was too young and made us quit. Do you think this was right?"

If you are just good friends and nothing more there is no reason why you shouldn't go with a boy you are not in love with, Violet. Possibly your mother knew something about this boy that you didn't, and that was why she objected to your correspondence.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am a young girl 18, and am in love with a young man two years my senior. I have been going with him about a year, but he is jealous of me. He doesn't even allow me to speak to my gentlemen friends. Shall I give him up?"

"UNDECIDED BLUE EYES."

If you expect to enjoy life you should give him up, dear.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, March 27. — Columbus, and that egg he stood on end, had nothing on Senator Borah and his popular subscription list, to pay back the $160,000 to Harry F. Sinclair.

From the minute Bill announced it, it was as plain as day light that the thing would be as simple as drinking water, to put across.

The stroke of genius was in getting the bump.

In the whole history of politics, it's doubtful if ever another idea was thought up, with the widespread appeal of that stunt of Bill's.

The beauty of it is that Bill gets the sole benefit of it.

His party organization not only deserves none of the credit for it, and gets none—it suffers, for letting Bill get the jump on it, the way he did. When Bill suggested that, as a Republican, he felt humiliated by those 160,000 smackers of Sinclair's, and urged his crowd to hand it back, Republican chairmen Butler hemmed and hawed.

If only William Morgan Butler had realized that Bill's instant follow-up would be, "All right, then I'll raise it myself," and what the country's response would be to these inspiring words—on, how William Morgan would have humped himself to dig up that roll!

But William M. Butler wouldn't recognize "Opportunity" if she kicked him in the slats.

Talk about stampees!

A stampee, at Kansas City, is what our best little Republican presidential possibilities have been worrying about all along—a deadlock—a sudden yell of, "Draft Coolidge!"—a stampee, his way—the whole thing done quicker than scat—Coolidge renominated in spite of himself—finis to everybody else's hopes!

Gosh! how fast things change in politics!

But, b'lieve me, you still hear 'em fretting about the prospects of a stampee.

The night before Bill sprang his $160,000 popular subscription scheme, you could easily have found odds of 100 to one against his presidential chances.

Today there are plenty of politicians in Washington who consider the strongest Republican candidate. They took one look at him, sitting there in his office on Capitol Hill, raking in contributions, in nickels and dimes, to pay off Harry Sinclair, and then they turned and nodded at one another and said, "H-m-m!" Those among them who were also presidential possibilities likewise turned pale.

For whom was it evident?

Peter's Adventure

By MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

COWBIRD PLAYS A MEAN TRICK

"Would you believe it! Would you believe it!" screamed Father Red Eye. "Mother! Neighbors! Cowbird has laid an egg in Chipping Sparrow's nest, too. Well, we have companions in our misery, Chippy, if that is any comfort to you, for she laid one in ours."

"By my beak! Here flies Bluebird and she certainly is in a temper. Look at the feathers on her back—they are standing up straight. What is the matter, Bluebird?"

Peter and the wrens held their breath to hear Bluebird's reply, but when she answered she fairly screamed, so they had no trouble at all in getting every word.

"Matter!" Bluebird alighted on a branch close to the Vireo's nest. "Matter enough. I am so mad I can hardly see straight. I was gone from my nest only a moment and when I got back what do you think had happened?"

"A strange egg in your nest!" exclaimed Mother Red Eye excitedly.

"Cowbird laid it!" declared Chipping Sparrow, sorrowfully.

"Yes! Exactly! But how in the world did you both guess it?" Bluebird fairly gasped with astonishment.

"Because she laid one in mine," answered Mrs. Red Eye. "And in mine," added Chippy.

"Well, I never! The brazen slacker!" Peter was now so excited that he didn't know what the other birds had not seen him and might not like his speaking at this time.

"Are you birds going to let that horrid Mrs. Cowbird get away with it? Why don't you throw out her old eggs and then fly after her and peck out her feathers? I'll bet if you did that she would never try that trick again."

The birds, astonished, looked to see to whom the unfamiliar voice belonged, and it was Father Vireo who first caught sight of Peter. Growing much excited, he called the other bird's attention to him.

"Do you hear me? Would you believe it? There is a Two-Legs up in the Wren's apartment. And he is trying to give us advice."

"Yes, he is, Red Eye, and if you would take it you would be better off," snapped Jenny Wren. "Don't you say anything more to our guest. He is a fine chap, and if he is a Human he can give you silly birds pointers. He'd never stand for Cowbird's tricks and no more would I!"

"You would if she played them on you," cried Father Red Eye, "and as for Two-Legs, what does he know about it? I dare say, he means well, but he isn't a bird, and he can't understand a bird's troubles."

"We can't see the tiny nestling that all those contributors would be for, for whom, for president?

Guess whom the politicians guessed.

As for numbers—it takes a lot of contributors to make up $160,000 in nickels and dimes.

It was obvious from the first that the damage couldn't be undone.

If Chairman Butler had acted promptly on Bill's first hint, he'd have pulled Bill's punch.

After Bill'd taken the initiative, it was too late for anybody else to be anything but a "copy cat."

From the headquarters of other Republican possibilities comes a sound as of the gnashing of teeth.

If they'd but thought of Bill's scheme first!

Yet suppose they had, it wouldn't have done 'em any good. They'd have reckoned that such a step as Bill took would amount to a confession of wrong-doing on their own outfit's part, and they wouldn't have taken it, at he did. They lacked, not alone Bill's originality; they lacked his nerve.

The upshot—Senator Borah will go into the Kansas City convention a darned dangerous man.

He may go in with an airtight cinch.

Ten days ago the ablest authorities would have laughed you to scorn if you'd made such a prediction. Perhaps they'd have conceded that a miracle might nominate Bill—but nothing less.

Our oil scandal has been a strange, strange thing.

Four years ago, according to all precedents, it ought to have smeared the dominant party flat, and it never phased 'em, which was queer circumstance No. 1.

Here lately it's transformed itself from an oil scandal into a campaign fund scandal—queer thing No. 2.

And then happened the queerest thing of all.

Only one or the other of two results seemed possible:

1. That the scandal wouldn't have any effect at

Pennants Will Be Passed Out In Pennsylvania, He Thinks "Just To Be Different"—Puts Reds In Second Division

By PHIL FRAME

Now is the time for all good, bad and indifferent baseball fans to get to the aid of their favorite teams in the National and American Leagues.

With the opening of the season less than a month away, it is still difficult to measure up with any degree of accuracy the relative strength of the sixteen teams that will battle for the championship flags in the two leagues this summer.

So far removed from the camps of preparation, the chief source of information must necessarily be from writers of acknowledged worth.

It is my firm conviction that at least five clubs are so well equipped that they are bound to be prominent contenders for the National League pennant throughout the season with Pittsburgh favored to repeat its 1927 victory. Chicago, which weakened on the stretch drive last year, will undoubtedly provide the keenest competition with its great pitching staff, unrivaled in either league. St. Louis and New York must also be reckoned with while Cincinnati, putting in the field the same team as in 1927, except that the players are a year older, may or may not be a contender.

In the American League, the New York Yankees are thought by the majority to be a sure bet. However, it is our opinion that Philadelphia will confound its critics and nose out Babe Ruth and Co., with Washington a close third and Detroit fourth, mainly because of an inadequate pitching staff.

Anyway, here are the annual guesses for what they are worth:

NATIONAL LEAGUE.
Pittsburgh, Chicago, St. Louis, New York, Cincinnati, Brooklyn, Boston, Philadelphia.
AMERICAN LEAGUE.
Philadelphia, New York, Washington, Detroit, Cleveland, Chicago, St. Louis, Boston.

ONE FOR THE BOOK

Mickey Cochrane, classy catcher of the Philadelphia Athletics, pulled a hot stunt in an exhibition game this spring against the New York Giants.

It was the third inning of a tilt at Ft. Myers, Fla. Claude Jonnard was pitching for the Athletics with Cochrane receiving. The Giants were at bat.

Andy Reese, leadoff man, popped a high foul which Mickey snagged rather easily. One out.

Bill Terry was next. The ball glanced off his bat and Cochrane went back and caught it. Two out.

Travis Jackson then came to the plate and again the ball caromed off his bat into the air only to be snagged by Mickey. Three out.

Three pop flies in a row, all caught by the catcher, who, of course, retired the side singlehanded.

It is believed this is the first time in many years that this has ever happened in a game between two major league clubs.

CAMERA FOR TAKING FINGERPRINTS NOW WILL HELP SHERIFF

With the purchase of a fingerprint camera from the Folmer Braflex Corp., Rochester, N. Y., authorized by County Commissioners, Sheriff Tate believes his office is now better equipped to investigate robberies where fingerprints are the only clues left by the intruders.

Purchase of the camera completes the fingerprint identification equipment of the office, and eliminates the inconvenient system of taking finger prints to the Dayton bureau to be photographed.

The camera, complete with lens, film holder and Mazda miniature lamps, also provides a fingerprint developing tank. Photographs taken are allowed a six-second exposure.

The prints are developed in the office and forwarded to various parts of the country for identification. The camera is also capable of reproducing pictures.

Members of the family of Frank Archer, 53, 221 Chestnut St., killed Saturday night when struck by an auto on the Dayton and Xenia Pike, declare he had not been drinking prior to the time he staggered in front of the car.

Passing motorists had summoned authorities to the spot shortly before the accident occurred, reporting they noticed a man acting queerly.

Members of the family say that Archer was subject to frequent attacks of acute indigestion and in their opinion had become suddenly ill with stomach trouble, explaining his peculiar actions. Investigation by authorities afterward substantiated this belief.

Coroner F. M. Chambliss, who conducted an inquiry into the death, Tuesday he will render a verbal report of accidental death, caused by an unavoidable accident.

Members of Xenia Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, will hold a special meeting Friday night at 8 o'clock to elect a successor to George Killen, worthy president, who has resigned, according to Secretary Otto Hornick.

A successor will be elected to serve out the remainder of the term of one year. All Eagles are asked to attend the meeting.

Lester Stiles, one of the veteran ball players of the city, will coach the ball team of Troop 45 this season.

Troop 45 will hold its regular meeting Friday evening at Scout Cabin.

Any boy of Scout age who is contemplating joining Troop 45 is asked to come to this meeting. The quota for a full troop is about filled.

The troop committee is planning for another open meeting for the parents of the boys, when another class of Scouts will be received into Troop 45.

An interesting ceremony is being planned that will be instructive as well as entertaining.

The First Lutheran Sunday School is planning to start a Girls' Scout troop in Xenia and plans are being laid for an active troop of girls.

Troop 45 held its first baseball practice of the season Saturday morning. A five-inning game was played by the Rattlesnake and Beaver patrols. Much talent was displayed by the patrols, and Troop 45 is looking forward to a real team this season to take part in Scout League.

MABEL BOLL WILL FLY OVER OCEAN

NEW YORK, March 27.—Miss Mabel Boll, who cherishes the ambition to be the first woman to fly across the Atlantic, will make the attempt in May, she said today, after announcing that she has engaged Wilmer Stultz as pilot. It is reported that he will receive $25,000.

Miss Boll, so-called "Queen of Diamonds," declared she will act as copilot. She is now negotiating for the plane that will be used on the flight.

Members of the family of Frank Archer, 53, 221 Chestnut St., killed Saturday night when struck by an auto on the Dayton and Xenia Pike, declare he had not been drinking prior to the time he staggered in front of the car.

Passing motorists had summoned authorities to the spot shortly before the accident occurred, reporting they noticed a man acting queerly.

Members of the family say that Archer was subject to frequent attacks of acute indigestion and in their opinion had become suddenly ill with stomach trouble, explaining his peculiar actions. Investigation by authorities afterward substantiated this belief.

Coroner F. M. Chambliss, who conducted an inquiry into the death, Tuesday he will render a verbal report of accidental death, caused by an unavoidable accident.

Members of Xenia Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, will hold a special meeting Friday night at 8 o'clock to elect a successor to George Killen, worthy president, who has resigned, according to Secretary Otto Hornick.

A successor will be elected to serve out the remainder of the term of one year. All Eagles are asked to attend the meeting.

Lester Stiles, one of the veteran ball players of the city, will coach the ball team of Troop 45 this season.

Troop 45 will hold its regular meeting Friday evening at Scout Cabin.

Any boy of Scout age who is contemplating joining Troop 45 is asked to come to this meeting. The quota for a full troop is about filled.

The troop committee is planning for another open meeting for the parents of the boys, when another class of Scouts will be received into Troop 45.

An interesting ceremony is being planned that will be instructive as well as entertaining.

E. Blackburn, S. M.

The First Lutheran Sunday School is planning to start a Girls' Scout troop in Xenia and plans are being laid for an active troop of girls.

Troop 45 held its first baseball practice of the season Saturday morning. A five-inning game was played by the Rattlesnake and Beaver patrols. Much talent was displayed by the patrols, and Troop 45 is looking forward to a real team this season to take part in Scout League.

Frame Picks Pirates And Athletics

Pennants Will Be Passed Out In Pennsylvania, He Thinks "Just To Be Different"—Puts Reds In Second Division

By PHIL FRAME
Now is the time for all good, bad and indifferent baseball fans to come to the aid of their favorite teams in the National and American Leagues.

With the opening of the season less than a month away, it is still difficult to measure up with any degree of accuracy the relative strength of the sixteen teams that will battle for the championship flags in the two leagues this summer.

So far removed from the camps of preparation, the chief source of information must necessarily be from writers of acknowledged ability. It is my firm conviction that at least five clubs are so well equipped that they are bound to be prominent contenders for the National League pennant throughout the season with Pittsburgh favored to repeat its 1927 victory. Chicago, which weakened on the stretch drive last year, will undoubtedly provide the keenest competition with its great pitching staff, unrivaled in either league. St. Louis and New York must also be reckoned with while Cincinnati, putting in the field the same team as in 1927, except that the players are a year older, may or may not be a contender.

In the American League, the New York Yankees are thought by the majority to be a sure bet. However, it is our opinion that Philadelphia will confound its critics and nose out Babe Ruth and Co. with Washington a close third and Detroit fourth, mainly because of an inadequate pitching staff.

Anyway, here are the annual guesses for what they are worth:

NATIONAL LEAGUE.
Pittsburgh, Chicago, St. Louis, New York, Cincinnati, Brooklyn, Boston, Philadelphia, New York, Washington, Detroit, Cleveland, Chicago, St. Louis, Boston.

ONE FOR THE BOOK

Mickey Cochrane, classy catcher of the Philadelphia Athletics, pulled a hot stunt in an exhibition game this spring against the New York Giants.

It was the third inning of a tilt at Ft. Myers, Fla. Claude Johnson was pitching for the Athletics with Cochrane receiving. The Giants were at bat.

Andy Reese, leadoff man, popped a high foul which Mickey snagged.

It is believed this is the first time in many years that this has ever happened in a game between two major league clubs.

CAMERA FOR TAKING FINGERPRINTS NOW WILL HELP SHERIFF

With the purchase of a fingerprint camera from the Folmer-Braflex Corp., Rochester, N. Y., authorized by County Commissioners, Sheriff Tate believes his office is now better equipped to investigate robberies where fingerprints are the only clues left by the intruders.

Purchase of the camera completes the fingerprint identification equipment of the office, and eliminates the inconvenient system of taking fingerprints to the Dayton bureau to be photographed.

The camera, complete with lens, film holder and Mazda miniature lamp, also provides a fingerprint developing tank. Photographs taken are allowed a six-second exposure.

The prints are developed in the office and forwarded to various parts of the country for identification. The camera is also capable of reproducing pictures.

MABEL BOLL WILL FLY OVER OCEAN

NEW YORK, March 27.—Miss Mabel Boll, who cherishes the ambition to be the first woman to fly across the Atlantic, will make the attempt in May, she said today, after announcing that she has engaged Wilmer Stultz as pilot. It is reported that she will receive $25,000.

Miss Boll, so-called "Queen of Diamonds," declared she will act as a navigator. She is now negotiating for the plane that will be used on the flight.

"SPEED" LEOPARD IS SENSATION OF GEM CITY ROOKIE CAMP

Walter "Speed" Leopard, this city, has practically clinched a position on the Gem City entry in the newly organized Central League, according to nice reports about the Xenia youngster emanating from the Cardinal training grounds at Danville, Ill.

Leopard is said to be the sensation of the early training season and is showing up many of the veterans, tried and true.

The Xenia product is far and away the biggest physical specimen in captivity at the Aviators' training camp and stands head and shoulders above the other catchers in so far as early season form is concerned.

His versatility is also attracting much attention and his hitting in practice has been above average. Leopard, if need be, can also cover first base in a manner leaving little to be desired and in a pinch is able to take a turn in the box, reports say.

The ideal weather has made possible stiff workouts for the athletes every day and the candidates are rapidly rounding into mid-season form.

"STOLEN" AUTO IS FOUND BEING HELD BY POLICE MONDAY

Frank W. McElwain, Columbus, O., formerly of Xenia, spent a bad thirty minutes Monday night in the belief that his automobile, a Dodge coupe, had been stolen.

Mr. and Mrs. McElwain had attended a 6 o'clock birthday dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Buck, N. West St., parking their car about four houses away on Union St.

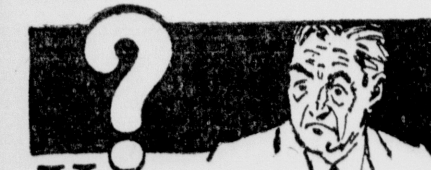

Preparing to leave later in the evening, the McElwains discovered the machine was missing, and with it McElwain's overcoat, which had been left in the auto.

Exposed to the cold weather, the former Xenian spent thirty minutes searching the neighborhood and finally, upon notifying Police Headquarters of the supposed theft, learned it was in the possession of police.

Police explained that a neighbor, thinking the car had been abandoned since it bore a Columbus license and had been parked on Union St. all afternoon, notified headquarters.

Patrolmen J. E. Craig and Charles Thompson were assigned to investigate and unable to trace the owner after making inquiries, the officers brought the coupe to headquarters for safe keeping.

McElwain later recovered the machine when he identified it at headquarters.

Troop 45 held its first baseball practice of the season Saturday morning. A five-inning game was played by the Rattlesnake and Beaver patrols. Much talent was displayed by the patrols, and Troop 45 is looking forward to a real team this season to take part in Scout League.

Lester Stiles, one of the veteran ball players of the city, will coach the ball team of Troop 45 this season.

Troop 45 will hold its regular meeting Friday evening at Scout Cabin.

Any boy of Scout age who is contemplating joining Troop 45 is asked to come to this meeting. The quota for a full troop is about filled.

The troop committee is planning for another open meeting for the parents of the boys, when another class of Scouts will be received into Troop 45.

An interesting ceremony is being planned that will be instructive as well as entertaining.

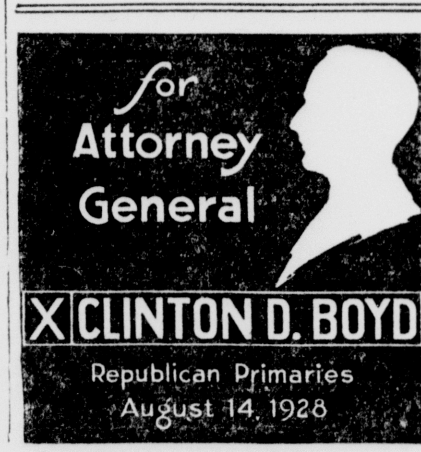

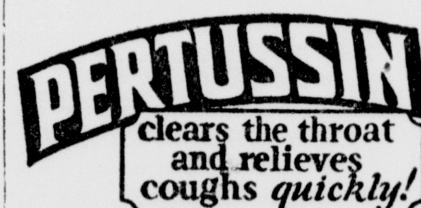

E. Blackburn, S. M.

The First Lutheran Sunday School is planning to start a Girl Scout troop in Xenia and plans are being laid for an active troop of girls.

EAGLES WILL NAME NEW PRESIDENT

Members of Xenia Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, will hold a special meeting Friday night at 8 o'clock to elect a successor to George Killeen, worthy president, who has resigned, according to Secretary Otto Hornick.

A successor will be elected to serve out the remainder of the term of one year. All Eagles are asked to attend the meeting.

CONTINUE HEARING ON HABEAS CORPUS WRIT TO RECOVER CHILD

Habeas corpus hearing began in Common Pleas Court Monday, involving a father's right to custody of his thirteen-year-old daughter, at present a ward of the O. S. and S. O. Home, was continued by Judge R. L. Gowdy until two weeks from Monday at the request of defense counsel.

MODERN MOVING AS DONE BY LANG CO., IS IMPROVED ART

Moving is not what it used to be. The days when the family belongings were piled on a wagon or dray and an anxious housekeeper silently prayed her most cherished possessions might not be in pieces when they reached their destination—such moving days have gone the way of old Dobbin and the red flannels.

An inspection of the equipment of the Edward W. Lang Transfer Co., shows how the moving problem has been developed into a modern art in the last few years. The huge new long distance speed trucks now make trips of hundreds of miles and deliver complete household equipments without the loss or marring of a single piece of furniture. One of Mr. Lang's trucks recently made a trip to Kansas City, Mo., and back in less than five days time, carrying full loads of household goods each way. Not a piece was so much as scratched, in either load. A few days ago his vans carried a load to Buffalo, N. Y. Skilful backing of the vans makes it possible for Mr. Lang to carry a very large amount of furniture at a single load. Everything is so carefully packed that there is rarely any damage to the furniture and in case an accident does occur the loss is immediately adjusted without argument. Every piece of furniture that is put into his vans for either long distance or city hauling is covered by insurance carried by Mr. Lang.

Mr. Lang makes a specialty of moving and hoisting pianos. For moving pianos to and from second story apartments he has a modern hoisting apparatus that makes it possible to take the instruments in through windows as quickly and easily as they could be taken up a stairs and with only slightly more expense.

Mr. Lang studies every new development in the science of transportation as carefully as a merchant studies business conditions and is giving the people of this locality moving facilities that are second to none in this section of the state. He has been in the moving business for more than ten years and by his carefulness and efficiency has built up a constantly enlarging business.

AIRPORT PLANNED

AKRON, O., March 27.—Plans for the improvement of Stow flying field here which will cover a two-year period, have been formulated, while the city awaits Washington's official action on the Zepelin project.

Cuyahoga Falls, Kent, Stow and Akron men make up the new company, which has been incorporated as the Akron Airport, Inc. Option for 240 acres additional land is expected to be closed in the near future.

ert O. Smith, Dayton realtor, charging his daughter, Iva May, is being unlawfully restrained of her liberty by Colonel T. E. Andrews, superintendent, and the Home board of trustees.

Following the death of her mother in a railroad accident, the child was placed in the state institution to be cared for by the Dayton chapter of the Red Cross.

This action was said to have been taken with the knowledge of her father, who at the time was in the South on government duty during the World War.

A year ago the father returned North, established his home in Dayton, entered the real estate business, was reputed to have become wealthy and remarried.

When he made application to the Home trustees to recover possession of his child, the request was denied, it was charged.

The trustees sought assistance from the attorney general's office in defending the case.

Eliza P. Hall, secretary of the Dayton chapter of the Red Cross, and Anna E. Wilson, of the Dayton juvenile court, were among witnesses introduced at the hearing Monday to give evidence in support of Smith's claim that has not been derelict in his duty to his daughter and is now able to provide her with a good home.

Defense introduced testimony tending to show Smith does not attend church regularly, is not as well-to-do as claimed, and that he abandoned his family in Youngstown in 1916.

At the close of the day's session, defense counsel requested and was granted a continuance of the hearing to provide time for a further investigation into the aspect of the case involving Smith's financial condition.

NEW FISH HATCHERY WILL OPEN IN MAY

LAKEVIEW, O., March 27.—The new state fish hatchery, now completed at Indian Lake Park will be in operation in May according to the state fish and game department. Dedication exercises will be held.

Hereafter, instead of soda take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion for sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent and fifty cent bottles, any drug store. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875. —Adv.

INTERIOR OF HOME ALSO IMPORTANT SAYS FRED GRAHAM

Personality in a home isn't a matter of mere money expenditure. It is rather someone's good taste, someone's charm and individuality expressed in the decoration and furnishing of the home. Interior decorating means making a survey of a home—an inventory of its good and bad points—planning color schemes and devising ways to give life, warmth and character to every room.

Fred F. Graham, who specializes in interior decorative work, said, "There has been a remarkable interest and enthusiasm shown by the women in this vicinity for this work."

Women everywhere are asking "Have you seen my sun porch since I redecorated it? I am so proud because I did every bit of the work myself and I had just loads of fun doing it."

Thousands of women have done work of this kind satisfactorily without a great deal of labor or money expenditure.

One big influence in creating homes of personality has been the new Duco finish made by the Du Pont Company. Duco is so easy to use and dries so quickly that it eliminates most of the difficulty of home decorating and is encouraging women to do this work themselves, where it might otherwise never be done.

ROBERT KINGSBURY ILLUSTRATING NEW GALLOWAY HISTORY

A book on early Greene County history and the pioneers being compiled by Dr. W. A. Galloway, Xenia historian, will be well illustrated including three drawings by R. H. Kingsbury, this city.

One of the pictures drawn by Mr. Kingsbury for the book is that of the old Greene County Court House, located at Alpha on the Harbline homestead and enlarged from a picture which appeared in the Gazette twenty years ago. Mr. Kingsbury is enlarging all three drawings in pen and ink and they will be again reduced for use in the volume.

The second picture will be of Daniel Boone, pioneer, depicting his preparation by the Shawnee Indians that inhabited this part of the country, for reception into the tribe, at Old Town, north of Xenia. The third picture will be of a Kentucky fort, located near Lexington, and which played a prominent part in the encroachment of the white man on the Indians battle grounds. All of the pictures are expected to be valuable additions to the book.

Mr. Kingsbury is particularly talented in pen and ink work and was art editor for "The Windmill" the publication of Manlius Military School, Manlius, N. Y., for several years.

SECOND HONEYMOON MAY BALK DIVORCE

PARIS, March 27.—The "divorce honeymoon" is the latest. The principals are Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Mortimer, Jr., members of rich and socially prominent New York families. According to the story told today by their friends, Mrs. Mortimer arranged with a lawyer to file divorce proceedings in Paris. The young husband, being of a romantic nature, suggested that they undertake a second honeymoon in the hope that their differences might be made up. They have now gone to England to attend the grand national turf event, as they did on their first honeymoon.

PROPER MILLINERY MAKES COSTUME IS WORD FROM OSTERLY

A woman of fashion and a very wise one at that, knows full well that any costume can be made or marred by a hat. For that reason, she goes about this business of hat hunting very religiously and before choosing, considers her new spring chapeau from every angle.

But in selecting her hats for spring, 1928, she will find little difficulty in finding the hats of her dreams at the Osterly Millinery Store, for the variety is infinite, the colors are spring's own and

Blackheads

Most stubborn cases of blackheads, pimples and blotches yield to Rowles Mentho Sulphur. It's the magical combination—sulphur for killing the germs and clearing the skin, menthol for healing the sore and broken tissues. Clears up skin eruptions—even burning eczema—amazingly quick. Leaves the skin healthfully white and smooth. Prove it on your own skin. Rowles Mentho Sulphur is inexpensive and all druggists supply it in jars ready to use. Be sure it's Rowles. —Adv.

the models were conceived in Parisian minds. . . what more can we ask?

And so realizing the fashion importance of hats, she sets about to make her selections. And here is some millinery style information that she kept in mind, when making her all-important selections:

There's an entirely new silhouette in the hats as they are being presented for spring. This quite naturally was conceived by the French and the whole secret lies in the novelty of the brim. The general idea, however, is one of simplicity, but the lines are unusually complicated. This new silhouette pertains solely to the brims, the crowns remaining snug and following the contour of the head closely, and are just as simple as ever.

Not only do we notice in the first spring hats that this complicated idea is limited to felts alone, for the straw hats appear to be very soft and flexible in that they are creased, tucked, draped and plaited in every way the felt is used. Straws are particularly prominent for spring, although felt never will lose its smartness and chic. In the straws, ballbunt, sisal, bakou and parablunt are the most prominent.

MONTHLY REPORT OF LEAGUE SHOWS WORK WITH NEEDY PEOPLE

The Social Service League had contacts with sixty-five families, five single men and women and thirty transients during the past month, Mrs. George C. Stokes, told the executive board in submitting her monthly report at City Hall, Monday night.

"These people came from different walks of life—some were driftwood, ne'er-do-wells, the victims of fate, born with delicate brains and undernourished, weak, ambitious bodies. Some came from homes shattered by the tragedy of death, the wage earner gone to his reward and the little left with a large brood of little ones. We cannot understand why this is so—perhaps to test us, to see if we will rally to the aid of the widow and the orphan," Mrs. Stokes told the board.

"Just now the League is struggling to pay the rent of one such afflicted mother. The League has been paying her rent for more than a year by funds raised outside the drive as there are never enough drive funds raised to pay rents. This fund is nearly exhausted, but there are some who are helping with this world's goods and who have none or few loved ones of their own to support, who could take over the responsibility entirely of paying this rent."

"Another type of seeker after relief was the homeless man wandering about the county hunting a job—suffering from the present unemployment conditions. Twenty-six meals were given this class, also clothing and shoes. Then we had the impostor, as we always do—some who were trying to get a little help, with conditions as an excuse, and who was refused."

"Coal, groceries, milk, medicines, medical services, hospitalizations, and household equipment were given or procured."

"Four hundred and eighty-one calls were received at the League office, besides hundreds of telephone calls made and received."

The League co-operated with several city organizations and bodies in other cities, in making welfare investigations.

The Presbyterian Church, the Second U. P. Church, The Reformed Church, Trinity Church, Mizpah Bible Class, of Second U. P. Church and the Rebekah Lodge sewed for the League during the month.

A large number of useful donations were received and given out. "We want to thank every person who even in the smallest way, helped to make our work a success during the month," Mrs. Stokes said.

Only routine business was transacted at the board meeting. Reports were read and accepted, bills allowed, etc.

A committee was appointed by the chairman to make a check-up on the recent drive, especially to see regular givers who were missed or out-of-town at the time of the drive.

KAFORY SHOP WILL MOVE INTO HOTEL

The Kafory Barber Shop, W. Main St., will be moved Wednesday or Thursday to the Atlas Hotel, S. Detroit St., Mr. Kafory announced Tuesday.

The shop will occupy the lobby of the hotel and Mr. Kafory expects to be ready for business Friday. The room now occupied by the Kafory shop will be taken over by the Maytag Washing Machine agency. Mrs. Lester Buell is owner of the W. Main St. building.

Loosen Up That Cold With Musterole

Have Musterole handy when a cold starts. It has all of the advantages of grandmother's mustard plaster without the burn. You feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Made of pure oil of mustard and other simple ingredients, Musterole is recommended by many nurses and doctors. Try Musterole for bronchitis, sore throat, stiff neck, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, croup, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the back or joints, sore muscles, sprains, bruises, chilblains, frostbitten feet, colds of the chest. It may prevent pneumonia and "flu."

Year after year more people are learning that the easiest method to subdue this Old Man is to fire DEPENDABLE COAL at him.

TWO-PIECE FROCKS ARE WINNING FAVOR NOW AT KENNEDY'S

Two-piece frocks appear again in great abundance at Kennedy's, with lovely monograms, fascinating little pockets and interesting color bands serving as decoration.

Pur trimming for our new spring frocks is more as a matter of Madame's choice for the reason that both are equally smart but perhaps the very newest is the furless coat which strangely enough and smartly too, is entirely collarless, depending thoroughly upon its smart simplicity for its success.

Bleached red fox and beige fox are the most favored furs and appear in some of the more intriguing sport coats as well as coats of the more formal silk type.

One thing to remember when you get about to select your spring coat is the fact that the fur must be either on the cuffs or on the collar, but it rarely appears on both. Scarfs of the coat fabric flutter from many of the smartest necklines and are drawn through slots of material.

Sport coats have wide tuxedo collars of self material with great pockets, narrow front belts and large fox cuffs. The smartest coats to be found in the shops appear in pattern tweeds in check and her ringbone designs and it appears that soft tans and greens are the most favored.

SHOE FASHIONS FOR SPRING FOUND NOW AT FRAZER'S STORE

It's to be a gay and brilliant season for the feet of fashion this spring—what with all the lovely new models to select from!

The shoe fashions for spring trip their way to fame and fortune as blithely and calmly as the first spring breezes wait themselves upon the waiting world of fashion. For is there one amongst us women folk who isn't "itching" to slip into our new spring costumes and slip our feet into bewitching spring slippers bought at Frazer's Shoe Store, and hie ourselves off for a jaunt on the boulevards?

A great many combinations appear on the horizon of spring footwear. Kid is trimmed with lizards, python, water snake and astralac. Great importance is attached to the almost startling revival of reptilian leathers. Water snake is particularly smart for spring.

With the tailleur and the ensemble, strap effects are very good, also the oxford and the open toe oxford with medium toe. The materials most fashionable for street wear are brown calf and kid, black kid and calf, reptilian leathers, patent and suede leathers.

GAY COLORS FEATURE FROCKS FOR SCHOOL GIRLS AT PENNEY'S

The vogue among the "grown-ups" for brightly colored fabrics has extended to the younger generation and little girls' school and play dresses are in bright colors to keep pace with the elders in the family. Gay harmonizing tones appear at the J. C. Penney Co. to take the place of the practical navy blue of former years and cunning little frocks are to be seen in delicate pastel shades. Dresses that tub easily and successfully are in high favor, both with mothers and with their fashionable little daughters and these are smartest when in linen or cotton.

Printed silks are important, too, in the more dressy type of girl's frock, and these are generally trimmed with harmonizing band of plain materials smoking and insets outlined by hemstitching.

It is our opinion, after our jaunt through the shops and stores, that the tan shades are to be the most popular for spring. All shades of blue are good too; and red, always a favorite with the future debutante, appears in brilliant profusion.

TAILORED SUITS IN PROPER MODE SAYS XENIA MERCANTILE

Without a question of a doubt, suits are to be the outstanding feature of the spring mode. For what woman doesn't revel in the feeling of smartness that a two-piece tailored suit gives her? This year the tailleur is perhaps more interesting than ever and especially are the skirts cunning. Plaids of every type and description are used and add interest to the new little suit skirts. Manish materials are the most favored in the two-piece tailored suit—coverts, reps, oxfords, kashas and tweeds are important. With the tailleur, satin blouses or knitted jumpers are favored, while white pique vests are also frequently seen. These, of course, are strictly tailored after the manner of the suit with which these vests are worn. Navy blue is again the favorite for spring suits while oxfords run a close second.

Never has there been such a selection in delightful printed silks as are to be found at the Xenia Mercantile Co. this season. Sheer and heavy crepes come into their share of popularity with small designs in cluster arrangement favored. Sheer crepes and flat crepes in plain colors are also favorites.

Light weight woollens have been developed in all sorts of interesting styles for street wear and sports wear.

Combat a cause which modern research has discovered. Turn food into fuel and energy, rather than into fat. Supply a natural element which your system lacks. That is the method embodied in Marmola prescription tablets.

People have used Marmola for 20 years—millions of boxes of it. They have told others the results. Now, in almost every circle, you can see the results in new beauty and new vim. Why not learn the way to attain them?

A book in each box of Marmola tells you the formula, also the reasons for results. You will know why the effects come, and why they are beneficial. Go ask your druggist—in fairness to yourself—for a $1 box of Marmola.

Without a question of a doubt, suits are to be the outstanding feature of the spring mode. For what woman doesn't revel in the feeling of smartness that a two-piece tailored suit gives her? This year the tailleur is perhaps more interesting than ever and especially are the skirts cunning. Plaits of every type and description are used and add interest to the new little suit skirts. Manish materials are the most favored in the two-piece tailored suit—coverts, reps, oxfords, kashas and tweeds are important. With the tailleur, satin blouses or knitted jumpers are favored, while white pique vests are also frequently seen. These, of course, are strictly tailored after the manner of the suit with which these vests are worn. Navy blue is again the favorite for spring suits while oxfords run a close second.

Never has there been such a selection in delightful printed silks as are to be found at the Xenia Mercantile Co. this season. Sheer and heavy crepes come into their share of popularity with small designs in cluster arrangement favored. Sheer crepes and flat crepes in plain colors are also favorites.

VARIETY FEATURES THE HUTCHISON AND GIBNEY CO. STOCK

There is a world of variety in the new dress collections as they are being offered for spring, 1928 by the Hutchison and Gibney Store. Colors run rampant and gay figured materials are important. Intricate cut and manipulation of fabric continues to be the high light, thus carrying out the elaborate formal air that has been so important for the last few seasons, perhaps because it gives the tall and slender look so favored by the fashionable women today. We find tunics in extremely good standing, many are wrapped tightly around the figure with shirred or plaited or circular fullness appearing at the opposite side.

Perhaps the most important single feature of the spring frocks is the scarf, either attached or separate, and in most cases, it is possible to be draped around the throat as milady wishes it. Oftentimes, the scarf is tied cowboy fashion in a double knot on one shoulder. As a rule, these scarfs are in great gay printed squares of lustrous silk and sometimes of double thickness. Little shoulder capes are prominent, too, in spring dresses and some of them are pertha-like, crossing the frock in the front and the back.

Perhaps the two most interesting fashion features of the spring coats are the cape themes and the three-quarter length effects. Capes are cunning little affairs that flare about the shoulder, some reaching to the elbow, others to the wrist, while a few of the most exclusive models have coats that reach almost to the hem of the skirt. There is a decided tendency toward the normal and slightly higher placement of the waistline on the newest coats.

Women will be glad to hear that kasha and kasha types—materials so popular for balmy spring days—appears again to be the fabric of supremacy in the cloth coat realm, while silk coats are developed of dull finished silks. Other materials popular are chevots, with novelty reps, covert, kasha and broadcloth.

With the passing of the season, the ensemble has been growing in importance and this season finds some very fascinating modes for both the sports and dress wear. For sports wear, the shops are featuring the seven-eighth length coat.

COMPOSER IS DEAD

LONDON, March 27.—Leslie Stuart, former church organist who became a composer of musical comedies that were popular throughout Europe and America twenty-five years ago, died of pneumonia today, aged 62.

HENRIE LIGHTNING RODS BALK NATURE PROPRIETOR SAYS

"I am especially interested just now in the prevention of losses from lightning," said Mrs. C. L. Henrie, proprietor of the Henrie Tin Shop. "At this season of the year when lightning hazards are great I am anxious to acquaint property owners with the protection afforded by the Miller Lightning Rod System. The Henrie Tin Shop not only installs this system of lightning rods on houses, barns and buildings of all descriptions but repairs systems already in use."

All kinds of spouting, gutters and metal work are put up by this tinning establishment and furnace installation, finishing work of all kinds and any line of service to be secured in any up-to-date tin shop may be had here.

MEN WILL BE GAY IN SPRING CRITERION STOCK INDICATES

As in suits, so in the smart accessories that go with them, color is the word. Just look at the stock of the Criterion.

If the indefatigable neckwear designers, and their brothers in the shirt, hosiery, handkerchief, and muffler fields, have left the poor spectrum a single color they have not ravaged, the finder could probably claim a substantial reward.

For a time it looked as though we would have to chronicle the demise of the brilliant stripe combinations in reps and mogadors, but they still have a lot of life in them judging from late reports.

However, small figured patterns and neat all-over designs in bold colors have taken the lead, with London checks, Spitalfield motifs, and other geometrical designs having a bit the best of it—and in the office, a tendency to modernistic ideas, with sport motifs as the basis. Also the plain colored tie is showing signs of life.

White shirts will still occupy generous room in the favor of careful dressers. But so far the colored shirt, in a multiplicity of figured and striped designs, with collar to match, shows no sign of going into eclipse.

Light pastel and white grounds will be the favorites, with neatness of effect the objective aimed at.

COLOR REFLECTED IN SMART APPAREL AT WEAVER'S STORE

Color continues to be one of the most important style influences in the design and selection of men's clothes—as in everything else, according to C. A. Weaver, E. Main St.

Though the spring fabrics have taken their colors from a pretty lively palette, they're more practical, so to speak, than those of a year ago. This is especially true of young men's clothes.

A year ago, if you recall, some of the grays, for instance, ran up the scale very nearly to a light oyster shade. And some of the tones of tan were almost as light. They looked very smart and cool in the spring sunlight when they were first worn, but they soon lost their immaculacy. And many a young man's weekly stipend suffered serious inroads by reason of unduly heavy cleaners' bills.

This spring, while colors continue to sing in lively tones, they're somewhat more subdued. And more attention has been paid to harmonious blending, not only in the ground colors, but in the decorative patterns as well.

SOME WOMEN ALWAYS ATTRACT

You want to be beautiful. You want the tireless energy, fresh complexion and pep of youth. Then let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets keep your system free from the poisons caused by clogged bowels and torpid liver.

For 20 years, men and women suffering from stomach troubles, pimples, listlessness and headaches have taken Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, a successful substitute for calomel, a compound of vegetable ingredients, mixed with olive oil, known by their olive color. They act easily upon the bowels without gripping. They cleanse the system and tone up the liver.

Keep youth and its many gifts. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly. How much better you will feel—and look. 15c, 30c, 60c. All Druggists.

In the morgue and another at the point of death, Albert Shute, the "fang killer", is being held by police today as the result of a St. Patrick's Day party during which he became crazed by drink and buried his teeth in four persons who sought to calm him.

Mrs. Sarah Marcoux is dead, and Adelard Brabant is lying delirious on the point of death in Alexandria Hospital. Walter Davis and Elsie Martin, the other victims, will recover. All four were poisoned by the teeth of the madman.

I Have Said in My Heart

By Idah McGlone Gibson
WORDS! WORDS!
Some research man has unearthed the fact that the English language in Shakespeare's time consisted of a vocabulary of only fifteen hundred words.
Today, we have more than five hundred thousand words with which to express ourselves and some of us make very hard work of making ourselves understood with all of them.
It is not so long in time since

GIRL PREPARES FOR GOOD FRIDAY DEATH EMULATING CHRIST

WOONSOCKET, R. I., March 27.—With the marks of Christ's crown of thorns in her head and the imprint of the nails of the crucifixion in her hands and feet, twenty-three-year-old Rose Ferron today was preparing to die on the same day as the Saviour for whom she has such intense devotion—Good Friday, April 6 for eleven years, the girl has suffered from the baffling malady, an affliction with the marks of the passion of the Christ upon her body. Five years ago she took to her bed and the past three years has never left.

Today she is strapped to the bed, the wrist and fingers of her right hand being the only parts of the body that are free. Tightly clenched in the fingers is a string of rosary beads, each of which moves incessantly throughout the day.

One of the strangest features of the case is the fact that the girl in three years has taken no substantial food, sipping only water with a few drops of stimulant added to it.

On each Good Friday of the past three years, she had received the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church. Her condition has always been most serious on that day. Miss Ferron believes that her death will occur upon the same day that the Saviour died and so will be prepared as ever, for death on Good Friday, not quite two weeks hence.

FRESH SEEDS MAKE FINEST FLOWERS ANDERSONS REPORT

"Fresh, tested seeds." This is the slogan of the Anderson Flower Shop at this season of the year. How much this means in the success of the vegetable or flower garden every garden "fan" knows.

None but the fresh tested seeds are carried in this shop and the splendid results in past seasons have convinced them of the wisdom of this policy. If you want to make your catalogue picture a reality in your own garden get seeds that have been tested.

Mrs. May Bickford spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Swindler. The Eleazer Church will hold its monthly social Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Bennington, and daughter Lucille, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Ary. They celebrated Mildred's birthday.

SWEETHEARTS

READ THIS FIRST:
Lynda Fenton, daughter of John Fenton, a periodical drunkard, has obtained her first job in the office of Armitage and Son, textile manufacturers.

Her father, kind enough when he is sober, continually, when under the influence of liquor, hurls insults at her and her mother, who, according to him, deserted her father when she was a baby.

Reeling across the kitchen the evening of her first day at work, Lynda Fenton, stumbling, clutches Lynda for support, inflicts a bad scratch on her shoulder, and then storms out of the house.

Later her one friend and companion, David Kenmore, drops in and accidentally learns of her hurt. David is bathing Lynda's inflamed shoulder at the moment her father comes back to the house. She is barely able to keep the two men from coming to blows.

He has obtained the job for her at Armitage & Son. But he begins to regret this when it is known that Ralph Armitage has "spotted" Lynda.

The second day in the office Lynda becomes acquainted with Emily Andrews, who has the desk next to hers.

Emily cultivates her in order to know David better, as she cherishes a secret fondness for him.

Lynda's new friend invites her to lunch, but having no money, she refuses; and David, seeing through the excuse, invites both girls to lunch with him. At the same time he foolishly says he was waiting to take Emily to luncheon, whereupon Lynda very curtly refuses the invitation and walks away.

Emily, alone with David, begs him to tell her about his "childhood's passion."

(Now Go On With the Story)

CHAPTER V THE LOW-DOWN ON THE STENOG

"I don't know what you mean, Emily," said David, looking rather sheepish.

"Oh, yes, you do, David," answered Emily. "You know I mean Lynda. She says she's known you ever since she was born. Is her temper as black as her hair? She's the first girl we ever had in the office with jet black hair, and most everyone is fighting shy of her. They're afraid she'll make trouble, you know."

"What do you mean, 'make trouble'?" asked David. "I'm sure Lynda would not make trouble for any one. She has troubles enough of her own."

Emily said nothing, but again David had an idea that he had said something better left unsaid, and he ventured a little more until she had finished her lunch.

Consequently Emily, although she had a stupid time, was able to take a nice dish of gossip back to the bunch, as well as the satisfaction of having her lunch paid for by an attractive young man.

Soon after, one by one, they trailed back from lunch, and as many as possible crowded into the rest room for their usual noonday gossip.

"Girls," said Emily, "I've got the low-down on the new stenog. I've put two and two together. Some of you must remember her father; he is the old soak that Claire Stanhope used to tell us about who was so mean to his daughter. This is almost her first real job, although she did some daily copying and office work before she left school."

"David Kenmore lives just at the other corner of the block, and they've known each other since they were babies. It was he who persuaded Armitage to hire her. You wild women will have to look out for, though she doesn't know it yet, Cutie is in love with Dashing David, and is due to find out what ails her mighty soon, and she'll probably scalp anybody who tries to two-time her."

"Look here, Emily," interrupted Claire Stanhope, "you're the only one who will try that. I know all about Lynda Fenton, and I'm for her. I was in school with her, and her father is a terrible person; drunk almost all the time. Lynda hardly ever had enough clothes to cover her back, and as many a proud, too, and never had a thing to say to any of the other girls, and very little to me. I used to talk with her some. Her father made her believe that no woman was good but those who haven't a chance to be bad. He also told her there wasn't the slightest chance of her ever being anything but a rotter, as her mother was before her. It was her destiny."

"Her mother, he told her, deserted her when a baby, for another man, and the girl's whole morale is smashed in little pieces. I don't think it ever can be put together again."

"I haven't talked with her yet, but I want you to know, Emily, here and now, that I, for one, am her friend. I'll teach her a few things about this place and how to take care of herself."

"Say, Claire, stop your coaching," said Emily. "I've already taken her in hand. I found her first."

"If you do that, I'll bet anything to a pair of socks she will learn mighty fast. What she needs now is to get a little of the money that her father spends with bootleggers and buy a dud or two that looks as though it cost more than two dollars and ninety-eight cents. Has

"Oh, be your age, Claire, be your age!" shouted Emily.

Ralph Armitage seen her yet? When he does, Emily, you will have to try a new brand of vamping on the 'young boss'."

"Oh, be your age, Claire, be your age," said Emily, "I got that thrill this morning. Stopped just in time not to run over her desk when his eyes lighted on that shiny black hair. I guess he came back in time for June Challer's party. He promised to be there, and just to show you that I'm a good egg, I'm going to ask Lynda to go and I think we'll get as big a kick out of it as Ralph will. Of course, he does not know that any of the girls from here know June, if he did, he probably would not go, but June asked me, and I'm going to ask her to invite Lynda."

"I'll bet she's never had a real sweetie in all her life, and she'll understand the technique of a man-about-town like quite as well as I do. Green, I'll like to see 'Armitage's' face when he meets some of the girls from his own office. They say that is the only line he draws."

"So, Emily, you're going to start a 'fun for the boys, but death to the frogs' game, are you? Do you intend to ask June to invite Handsome David, too?"

"Ye gods, no, I couldn't be myself if he were around. He got Ebony Locks her job here and feels responsible for her. He'd probably have a duel with Ralph before the party ended, and not only mess up the picture, but get fired for spoiling the map of Mr. Armitage's son."

"Yes, and the worst of it is," said Claire, "Emily wants to throw poor Lynda at Ralph's head, so that she will have a clear chance with David Kenmore. Lyn's had such a rotten time at home, she'll probably fall in love with the first fellow who sends her a bunch of violets or takes her to see Gloria Swanson."

Radio Revue BY C. KAY

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to The Gazette

NEW YORK, March 27.—An oft-asked question, "Why is it not possible from an engineering point of view to have all network stations on a single wave length while broadcasting a given network program?" has been answered by M. H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting Co.

It is not practicable from the standpoint of engineering.

"It is true that it is being worked out in one case with all the resources of one of the greatest electrical laboratories, but purely on an experimental basis and on conditions that would not make its extension practicable," Aylesworth says.

"But assuming that it could be done, there is the problem of the independent station. The National Broadcasting Co. owns one station. The network has grown entirely through forty independently owned and operated stations taking service from N. B. C. These stations represent many lines of business. Fourteen are newspapers. Others are department stores, insurance companies, fraternal organizations, radio apparatus manufacturers, etc. These are institutions of the one wave length idea would affect."

"The purpose of each station is to bring the owner as much good will and popularity as there can possibly be derived from radio broadcasting. That station broadcasts programs of local interest from the standpoint of entertainment and service, and it has a very definite local identity which, if lost, would remove the only reason for operating a broadcasting station. Each, to the utmost of its ability, serves its constituency with the best local programs available, and in addition thereto, brings the network programs of outstanding national importance, together with artists of national reputation that can only be obtained in that way."

"If during the period of broadcasting a network program, the station owner was forced to leave its present wave length, a wave length which through continuity of use its followers are familiar with and seldom tune away from, such network programs would be of no use to that particular station of course, they would still be of interest to the listener, but the station would have no reason for being the means of bringing that program to the listener. A great number of independent stations now a part of the network have very definitely expressed themselves on the point."

Network programs occupy only about an hour and a half of the average station's time. If they operated on the same frequency at all hours, naturally there would be chaos in the off-chain periods.

Network broadcasting on a single wave length requires elaborate and expensive change in transmitting equipment, greatly amplified

MRS. FERRIS BACK FROM CONVENTION WITH NEW STYLES

Bobbed hair is not going out of fashion in the opinion of Mrs. R. C. Ferris, of the Court House Barber Shop, who has just returned from New York City, where she spent two weeks attending the National Hairdressers' Association Convention at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel.

Mrs. Ferris declared that bobbed hair is popular as ever, at least in the East, although the bob is being worn longer than before.

Mrs. Ferris believes that "flappers" are mainly responsible for a tendency among women to return to long hair and also girls in high schools and colleges, who have always worn their hair bobbed and are now evidencing a desire to find out what the opposite extreme is like.

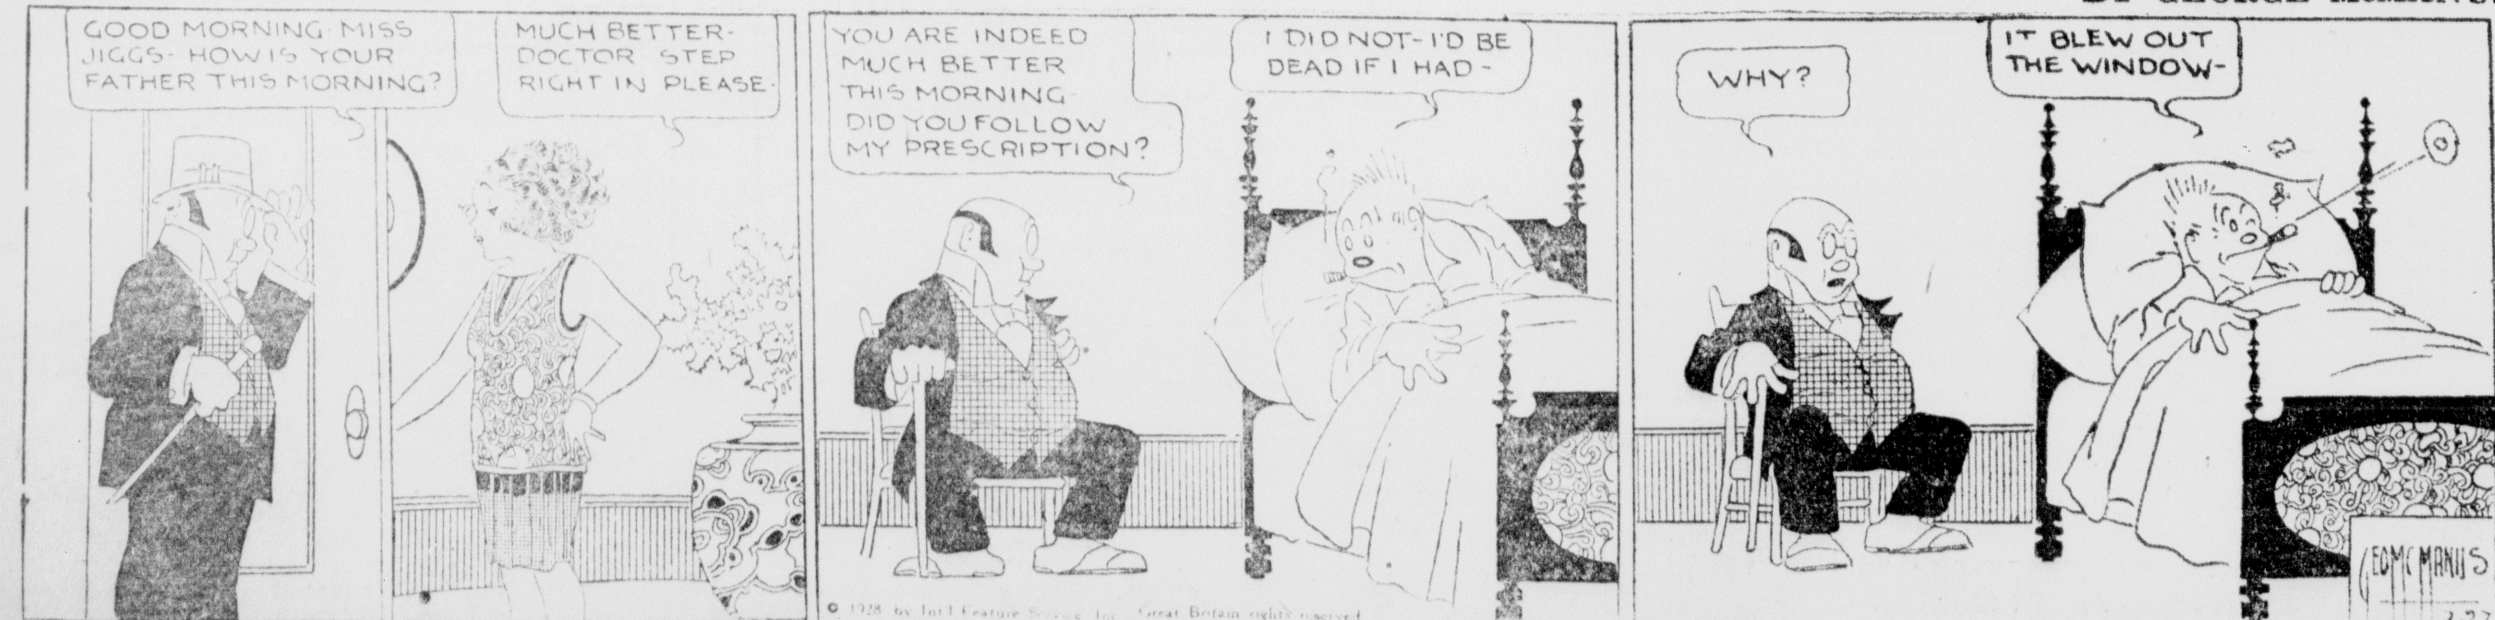

Mrs. Ferris is instructing operators in her shop in the new style trends.

ACCESSORIES MAKE THE COSTUME JOBE BROTHERS DECREES

There are so many interesting accessories in the Jobe Brothers store for the spring season that it is difficult to know just where to begin. On every side there are things new, things exotic and things typically modern for spring.

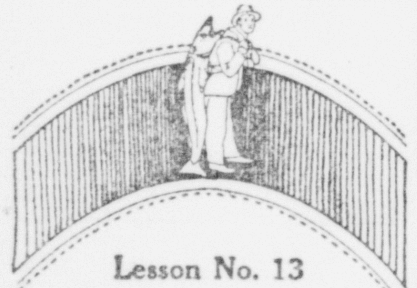

For no reason at all, except that they are so unusually smart and interesting this year, umbrellas will be mentioned first. The most important are imported affairs with hook and crook shape handles of compositions of tortoise-shell and these will face spring showers with silk coverings of solid color. Changeable silks in shades of green are much seen; and diagonal, slightly rounded hooks of crystal are combined with contrasting composition in handles that top umbrellas of changeable silks.

The gloves for spring go hand in hand with fashion and are to be seen in both novel and simple versions. Some of the fascinating ones have cunning cuffs with contrasting leather insets, often in a very vivid shade. It is doubtful if fashionable women will ever give up the popular slip-on glove. Washable suede and antelope in all its well-known guises appear to be most in favor and the smartest of these are hand sewn.

In the spring neckwear family, there is nothing more favored than the silk scarf. Great squares of silk they are, exotically colored in all the new and brilliant colors of the mode. Many of them were designed by famous artists both in this country and in France and are to be worn with trig little tailored suits or smart spring frocks. These are to be thrown nonchalantly around the shoulder and tied either in the front or cowboy fashion on one shoulder.

vicinity of brilliant jungle prints whose colors were no doubt inspired by the gay and exotic colors of the natives' costumes. Fruits are not overlooked in the 1928 spring silks and one striking piece that is noteworthy was of wild cherries in an exceedingly smart design.

The overwhelming success of the tailored frock and the sports ensemble is, no doubt, a decided factor in the great importance which is attached to the beautiful new woollens for spring.

Wool crepes, jersey, kasha, tweed and cashmere all are highlighted in the mode. Novelty tweeds, which will go to make some of the most fashionable coats of the season, favor small, indolite patternings or weave effects patterned along geometric lines. Spring frocks will be made of smooth surfaced tweeds in beige and brown mixtures, oxfords and deeper brown shades.

STYLES SHOE STORE OFFERS LATEST IN PROPER FOOT MODES

"The outstanding style development in men's footwear fashions is the trend toward the narrowed toe and custom lines," says Lester Styles of Styles' Shoe Store.

You can recollect, no doubt, the time when shoes assumed tabletop dimensions and "dogginess" was the thing. But the old order changeth and the keen edge of style smartness trims down the toes until they resemble the higher priced custom made lasts.

This movement, however, is not carried to its extreme, and the medium broad toes will still prevail as popular models, especially among the young men. This change finds a synchronization in the trend toward narrower trousers and is commendable because it creates harmony in one's turn-out.

Oxfords will predominate, and as the season advances toward warmer weather, weights will decrease so as to provide a full amount of foot comfort.

The real light shades of tan are being replaced by the richer looking, medium shades. Black is holding its own, and in several centers is becoming more popular. Patent leather will find some adherents in shoes for general wear.

The wing tip is staging a revival on shoes shown by some leading manufacturers, but is evidenced by a simpler and smarter presentation. Neater stitching effects are also supplanting the heavy pinkings and perforations commonly associated with the balloon toe.
